Postal Reform Bill Blocked By House

Will Substitute More Limited Plan For Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — A postal reform-pay boost package backed by President Nixon and the postal unions has been tentatively rejected by the House in favor of its own more limited version.

The House Tuesday refused on a 219-139 vote to substitute the reform-pay package negotiated by the Nixon administration and most postal unions for one forged by the House Post Office Committee.

But the House bill also faces attempts at heavy revision and there is cloakroom talk of passing an 8 per cent pay raise for mailmen without postal reform at the risk of a presidential veto.

Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., contended the House bill was unacceptable and urged the House to take up the package negotiated by the administration and postal unions in the wake of the nation's first mail strike last March.

"If you vote on this," Udall said, "you're voting against (AFL-CIO President) George Meany, the AFL-CIO unions and the President of the United States and saying 'No, you shouldn't have a vote on your package.'"

A key difference in the committee bill would make the pay boost for mailmen retroactive to April 18, while the administration package called for the raises to be effective upon passage. Also, the committee version provides for easier congressional vetoes of future postal rate increases.

The bill would turn the mails—controlled by Congress for 181 years—over to an independent U.S. Postal Service with corporate powers to put them on a self-paying basis by 1978.

Tate Case Defendants Calm Down

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four hippie-type clan members who disrupted proceedings at pre-trial hearings became models of decorum at the opening of their trial on charges of murdering actress Sharon Tate and six others.

Shaggy-haired Charles Manson and three women followers in gaily colored dresses watched quietly Tuesday as jury selection began. All rose when asked to face the 60 prospective jurors who filed into the spectator section of the courtroom.

The defendants were impassive as the judge read each count of the murder-conspiracy charges against them.

The three women, their long hair falling over their shoulders, giggled and smiled at friends in the spectator section. They are Susan Atkins, 21, Patricia Krenwinkel, 22, and Leslie Van Houten, 20, one-time members of a roving communal "family" led by Manson, 35, known by members as "God" and "Christ."

The four, who were ejected from court last week for refusing to sit down and obey rules, followed their attorneys obediently into the chambers of Superior Court Judge Charles Older for private questioning of prospective jurors.

The first day of jury selection indicated a lengthy search for 12 persons who will meet all qualifications and be able to stay away from home and work for the trial which is expected to last six months. The judge has ordered the jury sequestered in a hotel for the duration of the trial.

2nd Warren Man Held For Robbery

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — A second Warren man has been arrested and charged in connection with the $19,995 holdup last November of the Lordstown branch of the Second National Bank of Warren.

Charles Kirksey, 43, was charged by the FBI Tuesday with receiving part of the robbery money. He was arraigned here before U.S. Commissioner Thomas Moore and waived a preliminary hearing. He was bound to a federal grand jury in Cleveland and released on $5,000 bond.

The other Warren man arrested was Thomas Lingo, 24. He was charged with bank robbery.

Resolution To Oust Mayor Gerhardt Defeated By City Council Tuesday

A resolution to remove Richard Gerhardt from the office of mayor of Circleville was defeated in city council Tuesday.

The resolution was presented by Boyd Horn, veteran fourth ward legislator. The only support he received was from Samuel (Pete) Cook, second ward councilman.

Frank Barnhill, councilman at large, abstained from voting because he and Mayor Gerhardt opposed each other for the office.

David Goldschmidt, first ward councilman; Keith Wagner and David Crawford, councilmen at large, all opposed the resolution which would have vacated the office to the date when Gerhardt provisionally accepted the post of assistant to the prosecuting attorney. Third ward Councilman Harold Clifton was not present.

THE mayor took the post pending a ruling by the attorney general whether he could hold both positions legally. His appointment was accepted with reservations by Judge William Ammer.

When the attorney general's opinion was received that he could not hold both positions,

Mayor Gerhardt resigned as assistant to the prosecutor. He was paid for his services during his brief tenure in the position.

Horn based his resolution to vacate the office on the assumption that since the two offices are not compatible, Gerhardt automatically became ineligible for the office of mayor.

City Council approved an ordinance authorizing the mayor to enter into a contract for fire protection with Circleville Twp. The contract is to be for $5,000 annually plus $60 per fire run.

The present contract is for $3,000 and $50 per fire run. It expires June 30.

The fire protection ordinance was the only legislation enacted Tuesday by council.

LEGISLATION to accept the dedication of the north side of Clark Drive from the city school was tabled until the service committee could study construction of the street. The ordinance was read for the third time last night.

Held to a second reading was an ordinance transferring $204,077 from the RCA Public Utility Fund to the engineering

Will Publicize Inflationary Movements

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced today the erection of a three-way governmental barrier to spiraling inflation, while promising:

"I will not take this nation down the road of wage and price controls."

Nixon thus gave way to increasing pressure for a policy of voluntary restraint on wages and prices.

In a nationwide TV radio broadcast on economic policy, he lectured business and labor on their responsibility to refrain from excessive price markups and wage increases.

"The fight against inflation is everybody's business," the President said.

He announced these actions to pull the reins tighter on inflation:

1. A National Commission on Productivity will be named with representatives from business, labor, government and the public. Its duty will be to find ways of increasing output per worker and bringing a balance between cost and productivity to assure more stable prices.

2. Nixon directed the Council of Economic Advisers to prepare a periodic "inflation alert," to spotlight significant wage and price bulges and analyze their inflationary impact.

"This inflation alert will call attention to outstanding cases of price or wage increases and will be made public by the National Commission on Productivity," Nixon said.

3. A Regulations and Purchasing Review Board is being set up, to review federal purchasing procedures to assure that they do not drive up costs and prices; and to review import policy to see whether supplies can be increased to meet rising consumer demand without loss of jobs at home.

"This administration, by its spending restraint, has set the example in this past year; we

GREENVILLE RESIDENT Given Prison Term CHICAGO (AP)—A 26-year-old Greenville, Ohio, man who admitted robbing a Philadelphia bank and two Chicago savings and loan associations, then giving most of the loot to hippie friends, has drawn a 10-year prison sentence.

Thomas A. Halley, was sentenced in U.S. District Court here after admitting the three robberies late last year. Authorities say Halley took about $11,830 in the robberies. He was arrested in Chicago Feb. 5, but none of the loot was recovered.

Draft Guidelines Place Emphasis On Sincere Belief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Selective Service Director Curtis W. Tarr says relatively few persons will be able to escape the draft because of the Supreme Court's new, less restrictive definition of conscientious objectors.

But if anyone can, it will be the young college graduate, especially if he studied a lot of philosophy and religion.

Although Tarr said in a Tuesday news conference the decision by the court, along with a separate but related ruling, would not "open the flood gates" for each man to write his own classification, a bit of uncertainty is shadowing the draft as a result.

The court ruled Monday that conscientious objection could be based on moral or ethical grounds as well as religious beliefs.

In telling newsmen the decisions won't result in large numbers of C.O. exemptions Tarr said, "It will be difficult for people to profess sincerity when there is no sincerity. It will be difficult to profess rigorous training and belief for someone who doesn't even take the trouble of looking up the footnotes."

But Tarr conceded, in questioning, college students are exactly the people most likely to quote the philosophers and look up the footnotes.

In the other case Monday, the Supreme Court also ruled that a draft board must reconsider the draft status of a man who offers pertinent new evidence supporting a claim for some other classification.

For instance, a man with a student or 1-A classification can offer proof—as did the subject of the second court decision—that he had since developed beliefs that make him a conscientious objector.

If his evidence appears at all serious, the local draft board must consider his claim.

Draft officials have been counting heavily on June graduates, who were expected to lose their student deferments and become 1-A in time to help fill draft calls for the rest of this year.

But, coming on the heels of an unexpected drop of Army enlistments last month, the new avenue of conscientious objection casts further uncertainty on estimates that the draft need reach no higher than lottery number 215 this year.

If enlistments continue low, or if conscientious objection should increase seriously, the draft might have to call more men than expected.

Skies Clear After Heavy Storminess

Skies cleared over most of the midcontinent today following still another night of violent thundershowers and occasional tornadoes.

No injuries were reported in twisters that dipped into or whirled over central Illinois, northwestern Indiana and southeastern lower Michigan.

Heaviest damage occurred in the Illinois community of Lexington, where cars and trailer homes were overturned, some houses were unroofed and numerous trees were torn down. The high school, grade school and a church were heavily damaged.

Flooding hit sections of the Kaskaskia River in southern Illinois where up to 6 inches of rain fell Monday and Tuesday. No urban areas were involved at present, but authorities said thousands of acres of farmland above and below Vandalia were expected to be under water.

While rain tapered off or ended in the Midwest and Great Plains, thundershowers soaked parts of the Middle Atlantic states during the night. More than 1½ inches fell on Atlantic City, N.J.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 43 at Evanston, Wyo., and Flagstaff, Ariz., to 85 at Childress, Tex., and Gage, Okla.

Israeli Commandos Strike Arab Bases Deep In Syria

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli commandos made their first raid into Syria in three months Tuesday night and their deepest since the 1967 Middle East war.

A military spokesman in Tel Aviv said the raiders penetrated 70 miles into the neighboring country, striking a bridge 40 miles south of Damascus and shelling an army base 49 miles northeast of the capital.

Damascus Radio said the raiders killed two Syrians and injured five. It did not mention the bridge but said an Israeli helicopter attacked an army camp north of Damascus while more Israeli planes crossed into the southern part of the country. It said Syrian jets chased them off.

An Israeli spokesman said the raiders were in retaliation for "49 acts of aggression" by Syrian troops and Arab guerrillas in the past month. He said three Israelis were killed and 15 wounded in recent Syrian attacks.

Israel did not say how the commandos traveled and Syria made no mention of any ground forces. Apparently they were hauled in and out by helicopter. A spokesman said all the raiders returned safely.

Syria said an Israeli helicopter flew in via Lebanese air space near the town of Nabk, 25 miles north of Damascus. "The helicopter shelled an army camp with mortars and then withdrew from whence it came," the broadcast said.

Later Tuesday night, the report continued, Israeli planes raided Southern Syria. "One enemy plane was hit before the raiders withdrew," the broadcast said.

Airport sources in Beirut said Syria closed its airspace to commercial traffic for three hours, forcing cancellation or re-

Reds Hit Cambodian Force On Vital Highway

PHNOM PENH (AP) — Communist troops took over part of another provincial capital in Cambodia today and ambushed a Cambodian army force trying to reopen the vital highway between Phnom Penh and the country's only oil refinery, the Cambodian Command reported.

Another provincial capital also came under heavy pressure from North Vietnamese and Viet Cong units, a military spokesman said.

There was no confirmation in Saigon of reports that at least one regiment of Thailand's Black Panther Division would be moved from South Vietnam to reinforce the defenses of Phnom Penh. But an informed source said about 6,000 of the Thai troops would be shifted "within 15 days," and some of them might be deployed around Siem Reap and the temples at Angkor, in northwest Cambodia less than 100 miles from the Thai border.

The Cambodian spokesman said advance enemy units had seized hotels and the central northwest of Phnom Penh, but the rest of the town was still held by government forces.

The enemy's presence in Kompong Chhang, after several days of intermittent shelling and minor skirmishes, cut the last road link between Phnom Penh and northwest Cambodia, including Battambang and the Siem Reap-Angkor area.

At Kompong Thom, a provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh, Communist troops shelled government military positions overnight. The government was moved in by helicopter in the face of a growing enemy threat.

With its attacks scattered over a wide area in all directions from Phnom Penh, the Communist command appeared to have succeeded in one of its reported aims—to draw the Cambodian army's strategic reserves away from the capital and spread it over a wide area. Phnom Penh is considered the ultimate target of the current Communist offensive.

The Cambodian spokesman said the government force trying to open the highway to the coast was ambushed at Trapeang Kraleng, 16 miles west of Kompong Speu, the provincial capital which South Vietnamese and Cambodian forces recaptured Tuesday.

The spokesman had no details, but he said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese abandoned Kompong Speu apparently had withdrawn westward along the highway, Route 4.

The highway is the main overland supply route between Phnom Penh and the port of Kompong Som, formerly Sihanoukville, site of the country's only oil refinery. Stores of fuel oil and gasoline in the capital are dwindling, and the city may be hit by a fuel shortage and power cuts.

The U. S. Command in Saigon reported a total of 291 Americans killed and 1,306 wounded in all operations in Cambodia since April 29, while South Viet-

Voting Age-Rights Measure Up For Final House Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — A double-barreled bill designed to lower the voting age to 18 and continue legislation protecting black voters in the South headed toward final House action today with Democratic leaders confident of victory.

However, there was strong opposition from administration-backed Republicans to the Senate-passed bill, which also provides a nationwide ban on literacy tests and establishment of a uniform residency requirement for presidential election voting.

The opposition was led by GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford, who sought to send the measure back to a House-Senate conference where he hoped the voting age reduction, which he said was unconstitutional, could be deleted.

The possibility of a veto has been hinted at by some opponents of the bill, but most Democrats regard it as unlikely.

The bill extends the right to vote to all persons 18 years old or older in all elections after Jan. 1, 1971. It provides for a prompt Supreme Court test to decide its constitutionality.

At present, only four states permit voting by persons under 21—Georgia and Kentucky, where the age limit is 18; Alaska, where it is 19, and Hawaii, where it is 20. In the last five years, 20 other states have rejected efforts to lower the voting age.

Supporters of the provision, noting that approximately half the combat deaths in Vietnam come within the age group of 18 to 21, argued a person old enough to fight and die for his country is old enough to vote for his leaders.

The opponents, besides citing constitutional grounds, said 18-year-olds are not mature enough to vote and point to violent protests on campuses to support their position.

The voting rights section of the bill continues until 1975. The act has been hailed as the most successful civil rights bill ever enacted. Its key provisions expire in August.

Aimed primarily at Southern states where there had been widespread evidence of discrimination against Negro voters in the past, the 1965 Voting Rights Act has led to vastly increased voter participation by blacks and the election of scores of local black officials.

Girl, 14, Succumbs To 'Old Age'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A team of autopsy surgeons has reported that a 14-year-old girl died of hardening of the arteries, a disease of old age.

Dr. Henry Turkel, San Francisco County coroner, said the condition of the girl's coronary arteries resembled that of women in their 70s and 80s.

The girl, Florencia Gomez, a junior high school honor student, was a Filipino who came here a year ago from Manila with her father and two teenage sisters.

She collapsed Monday at the San Francisco General Hospital, where her father had sent her to seek treatment for what was believed to be a cold.

Turkel said there was evidence the girl recently suffered an undetected heart attack.

Dr. Frederick Bruhn, the hospital's chief resident pediatrician, commented: "In fact, she probably went through her brief life having heart attacks and passing them off as minor pains."

At Kompong Thom, a provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh, Communist troops shelled government military positions overnight. The government forces were moved in by helicopter in the face of a growing enemy threat.

With its attacks scattered over a wide area in all directions from Phnom Penh, the Communist command appeared to have succeeded in one of its reported aims—to draw the Cambodian army's strategic reserves away from the capital and spread it over a wide area. Phnom Penh is considered the ultimate target of the current Communist offensive.

The Cambodian spokesman said the government force trying to open the highway to the coast was ambushed at Trapeang Kraleng, 16 miles west of Kompong Speu, the provincial capital which South Vietnamese and Cambodian forces recaptured Tuesday.

The spokesman had no details, but he said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese abandoned Kompong Speu apparently had withdrawn westward along the highway, Route 4.

The highway is the main overland supply route between Phnom Penh and the port of Kompong Som, formerly Sihanoukville, site of the country's only oil refinery. Stores of fuel oil and gasoline in the capital are dwindling, and the city may be hit by a fuel shortage and power cuts.

The U. S. Command in Saigon reported a total of 291 Americans killed and 1,306 wounded in all operations in Cambodia since April 29, while South Viet-

Paul, Madison County Engineer, arranged for an interesting but alarming talk on "Organized Crime in Ohio". Donald W. Swartz, Supervisor of the Criminal Intelligence and Organized Crime Unit of the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation, related some of the activities and planning efforts carried out by organized crime factions. Guests for the meeting included Glen Folis and Bill Lewis of Circleville and Lloyd A. Chacey P.E., Executive Secretary of the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers. The next meeting will be held on July 10 in Circleville.

Pro-Nixon Forces Delay Senate Action On War Curb

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of proposed war curbs on U.S. activities in Cambodia have resumed foot-dragging tactics in an effort to delay a final vote on the measure that has occupied the Senate for six weeks.

A dozen amendments to the Cooper-Church proposal remained under consideration today, including a proposal to permit the sale of Freedom Fighter jets to Thailand and South Vietnam.

As debate continued Tuesday, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, already resigned to keeping the Senate in session the rest of the year, renewed his vow to keep the Cambodia issue before the Senate "until doomsday."

Several hours earlier, Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., denounced both sides for delaying tactics and threatened to resign unless the issue could be resolved and the Senate could turn its attention to a pressing $4.5 billion education bill.

Mansfield said opponents of the Cooper-Church amendment, which seeks to restrict U.S. operations in Cambodia after July 1, "appear to believe they will be winning a great victory if they keep this going until June 30," the date President Nixon says all U.S. troops will be out of Cambodia.

"But they are mistaken," Mansfield said. "What we are interested in, and what his amendment addressed itself to, is what happens after June 30. We will be just as interested in passing it on July 1 or thereafter as we would be in getting a vote by June 30."

Cotton charged the Senate has become "a scene of paralysis" with debate "droning along day after day about the difference between Tweedle-Dum and Tweedle-Dee."

The New Hampshire Republican said he will "make myself a perpetual nuisance on this until the education measure is brought up "or I am going to resign as a senator." He is the senior GOP member of the appropriations subcommittee on education.

Mansfield tried last week to get a time limitation agreement on both the education appropriation and a catch-all supplementary money measure but it was blocked by senators wanting to debate school desegregation riders in the bills.

Also last week, after the Senate rejected 52 to 47 a key amendment to water down the Cooper-Church proviso, leaders of both parties predicted the debate could be concluded this week.

But Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, told reporters Tuesday he doubts the end will come before "the end of next week."

believe we have now earned the credentials to call for similar restraint from business and labor to slow down inflation," Nixon said.

While the President in the past opposed both voluntary and mandatory price curbs as useless and unworkable, he has been under strong pressure from Republicans on Capitol Hill to pull the inflation brakes tighter and obviate the economy as an election issue this year. Some of his own administration officials agreed.

Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, said Tuesday night the union wasn't impressed with the commission concept and would not be inclined to roll back its forthcoming wage requests even if the President called them inflationary.

The commission plan sounded much like the proposal of Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney. He suggested creation of a special body to analyze price markups and wage settlements and publicize those it deemed inflationary.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., has introduced a bill to confer such responsibility on the President's Council of Economic Advisers. House Democrats have added to the pressure on the White House by introducing a bill to give Nixon standby wage and price control powers.

While few expected Nixon would ever use that authority, enactment of such a bill would be a handy political weapon Democrats could say they gave Nixon the tools to deal with inflation but he wouldn't use them.

The speech was promised by Nixon on April 28. Word of it was given first to a business group that visited the White House. In the same conversation, Nixon said: "Frankly, if I had any money I'd be buying stocks right now."

Despite his confidence, the market, already in a steep decline, plummeted to a seven-year low and violence erupted on the college campuses when Nixon announced two days later that American forces were going into Cambodia.

Since then price increases have continued undiminished, unemployment has moved up to 5 percent—well beyond officially announced expectations—and industrial production has continued the decline that began last summer.

U.S. Plans New Mideast Approach

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, probing for a break in the Mideast crisis, is considering a direct new approach to Egypt parallel with renewed Soviet-U.S. talks on developing an Arab-Israeli peace formula.

Such a step is being considered as part of a U.S. program which is expected to provide a pledge to Israel of additional jet planes to offset recently increased Soviet military help to Egypt.

Some highly placed officials are represented as hopeful the intensity of the present Middle East crisis may open up new opportunities for peace negotiations.

Others, remembering the failure of prolonged U.S.-Soviet talks last year, are skeptical. President Nixon has yet to make a final decision on exactly what the diplomatic-military package will contain. His conclusions, first expected this week, may now not be completed until next week.

In order to avoid the maximum publicity of a White House announcement they probably will be disclosed by Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

Up to now the administration appeared to be concentrating its efforts on searching with the Soviets for the statement of principles which would enable the Israeli and Arab governments, particularly Egypt, to eventually negotiate a settlement.

Officials now rule out exclusive reliance on the Soviets as a U.S.-Egypt go-between. Either publicly or through diplomatic channels, or both, the probability is said to be high that Nixon will probe recent indications that Egyptian President Nasser is interested in exploring the possibilities of peace—although U.S. officials remain pessimistic in most cases.

One Nasser move came in a May Day speech in which he appealed directly to President Nixon not to provide more military aid to Israel. He added that "in spite of all that has happened we have not closed the door to negotiations."

It is now said in official quarters that Nasser's May Day speech deserves and will receive a reply from President Nixon.

But the reply is being formulated here in the light of a more recent Nasser comment recorded in Cairo about a month ago and broadcast by National Educational Television stations last weekend on the program "Advocates."

Nasser said in the broadcast he would restore a cease-fire on the Arab side that could last for six months if Israel declared its intention to withdraw to its pre-June, 1967, boundaries.

Nasser also spoke of a package settlement understood by American officials as a set of peace terms. The package includes Arab recognition of Israel's existence and territory. Arab recognition would be concluded before Israel actually withdrew from the territory conquered in the six-day war three years ago.

In the past Nasser has called for total Israel withdrawal as a pre-condition for negotiations. There also have been endless difficulties from Arab rejection of Israel's demand for direct negotiations.

New Outbreak Of Gunfire Hits Miami; Curfew Imposed

MIAMI (AP) — Gunfire has erupted in the city's black neighborhoods for the second straight night and five persons were wounded by officers' bullets, including two white men trying to protect their place of business.

City officials ordered a dusk-to-dawn curfew after violence spread Tuesday from the Brownsville area to two other large Negro districts.

Police said one of the black men wounded was a sniper and another a looter. A third Negro walked into a hospital and said he was shot as he sat on his front porch.

Shooting began Monday night after reports circulated that a black housewife had been insulted in a supermarket.

Officials said 16 other persons were injured. Most were white and suffered cuts when their windshields and car windows were broken by chunks of pavement and stones. One was admitted to a hospital.

A number of cars driven by whites were burned.

The two white men who were shot had stationed themselves with guns on the roof of their construction-business building.

Officials said Lisbon C. Morris, 42, owner of L. C. Morris Construction and Paving Co., was in critical condition with neck and body wounds.

Police said Morris and Douglas Leach, 57, opened fire on them when they arrived at the building to investigate a burglary report. Leach was in fair condition.

After nearly five hours of steady firing throughout a 20-square-block area of the Brownsville district, shooting and looting spread into the Liberty City section and looting was reported in Coconut Grove.

The violence centered around the Pic'n Pay Market operated by Fred Weller, a white man.

A group calling itself the People's Coalition had alleged that the store sold inferior food at inflated prices, refused to refund money on spoiled meat which customers returned and charged up to $5 to cash welfare and Social Security checks.

Weller refused to comment on his customers' charges.

John Hayes of the state Department of Agriculture said his agency had seized 300 pounds of meat at the store Tuesday.

Hayes said the meat had spoiled because of a faulty refrigeration system and that Weller was ordered to make repairs.

LE Cooks Attend Food Service

Four cooks in the Logan Elm School District are attending a school food service workshop at Miami University, Oxford.

They are Mrs. Emmett Hinton, cafeteria supervisor of the Logan Elm District; Mrs. Marion Beavers, head cook at Logan Elm High School; Mrs. Carl Agin, cook at Logan Elm High School; Mrs. Ernest Pennington, cook at Pickaway Twp. School.

This is the 19th annual workshop sponsored by Miami University home economics department and state department of school lunch service.

It is directed by Dr. Jane Rees, professor of home economics and Wade Bash, chief of Ohio School Food Service.

The workshop consists of classes in nutrition, commodity utilization, food preparation, food demonstrations and discussion groups.

More Changes Being Made In Area Landscape

The landscape of Pickaway County is under an ever increasing change, according to Donald Archer, district conservationist, U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

"The problems associated with the changing of agricultural land to homesites, roadways, school grounds, and other community uses are complex; but the basic principles of conservation are the same as anywhere else," Archer said.

Soil conservation, according to Archer, is based on premise that soils differ; that water must be handled according to certain principles; that the technologies related to soil, water, and plants must fit together; and most important of all, whatever is accomplished to protect our resources must be done by people.

In recent years the U.S. Soil Conservation Service has increased assistance to urban and suburban communities faced with the need for planning for rapid and orderly development.

Communities may secure the services available to them from trained and skilled technicians of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service by contacting their local Soil and Water Conservation District Office, 1440 N. Court Street.

Debt Practices

One consumer area where there is a potential for much abuse is debt collection. Now the federal government is finally taking an interest through the National Commission on Consumer Finance, a creation of Congress in its 1968 Truth-in-Lending Law.

The commission plans to hold hearings later this month on the use of high pressure tactics to collect retail debts. The commission will explore the "holder in due course" practice.

The unwholesome archaism immunizes a bank or finance company from responsibility if it buys a homeowner's note from the vendor of a service or product that later proves faulty, although the leading institution still can collect on the note.

Certainly, any debtor has an obligation, both legal and moral, to make repayment. But the circumstances under which debts are to be discharged ought to reflect fair play.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The word "recycle" is becoming relatively common today in the vocabulary of American business, but the word is really just a label for an old, old problem:

You really can't throw anything away anymore; you never could, either, because there is no "away."

Man has tried, of course, because the countryside is littered with automobile hulks, cans, tires, bottles, newspapers and other assorted trash that was discarded. But this is merely mute evidence of failure.

Once it wasn't so noticeable, because human beings didn't congregate so densely. Moreover, never before in history has man ever taken nature's materials and changed them in such abundance into other things.

Conscious that criticism of the pockmarked landscape can be escalated into legislation, many companies have begun programs to collect the litter and in an old business tradition, try to make a buck by reusing, or recycling it.

General Motors this week began a project in Traverse City, Mich. to test the economics of collecting and processing junk cars. Only 2,000 to 3,000 abandoned cars litter the area, but it is the collection method that is being tested.

Glass companies are trying to make old bottles useful and have determined that they may be ground and recycled as an ingredient of highways rather than as litter along them. Same with rubber tires.

Not certain any more that their responsibility ends with the successful use of their products, can makers are attempting to set up reclamation systems for their products after the contents have been drained.

Reynolds Metals learned from a pilot program in Los Angeles that the public, when offered 1/2 cent for an old aluminum can, will willingly help clear away litter. Expansion into 17 states is set for this year.

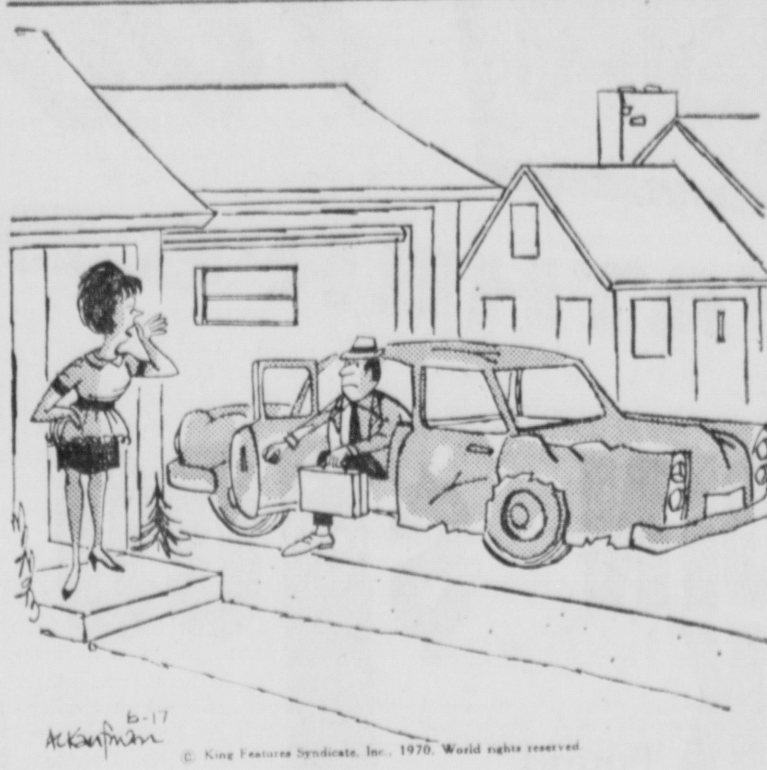

A rival manufacturer, Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical, recently announced a recycling program in the San Francisco Bay Area that offers individuals and groups 10 cents a pound for all-aluminum cans.

Kaiser's cost estimates suggest that the problem of litter not only is an unsightly one but terribly wasteful. M. D. Eesele, chairman of the project, estimates that $1 million in cans is tossed away in the Bay Area each year.

The makers of steel cans also are active. Continental Can Co. recently supplied 30 tons of scrap beer cans to a National Steel Corp. facility in Weirton, W. Va., where they were mixed with other ingredients to produce steel sheets.

The experiment was made in an attempt to overcome some of the problems of using scrap, such as contamination from other metals and from the enamels and paints applied to attract the eye of retail customers.

"Better put it in the garage. Tomorrow is trash-collection day."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

EVERY light suddenly went out at the Hawkins place and Pa and Ma traipsed down to the cellar to investigate. "Put your hand on that thar wire, Maw," commanded Pa, "and tell me if you feel anything." "Nothing at all," reported Ma. "So far, so good," nodded Pa. "Now just don't touch the other one, or ye'll probably drop dead."

An important American businessman, visiting London for the first time, was taken to the tennis matches at Wimbledon by an Englishman anxious to be awarded the local franchise for the American's product. "I wonder," he said with his most ingratiating smile, "if you know a chap out there in New York named Smith?" "There must be about thirty thousand Smiths in New York," smiled the American. "Can you identify the one you're referring to more exactly?" "Oh, you couldn't miss this rum character," the Londoner assured him. "Had a shooting box next to mine. Ran off with my wife, I believe. Worse still, I saw him shoot a pheasant on the ground. It was coming toward him, too!"

Smith: "Neither. He's baldheaded."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My husband, a hypochondriac, is scared to death of all kinds of diseases. When I go with him to a doctor, he becomes a new personality and I hardly recognize him. Instead of complaining to the doctor, he pretends that he is gay and absolutely unconcerned and that he is doing all of this for my benefit. How would you handle this so that he will stop fooling himself?

Mrs. H.I., Florida
Dear Mrs. I: You are wise to recognize such relatively strange behavior. You can be sure that this would not come as a surprise to your doctor if you spoke to him about it. This is not an unusual situation in the relationship between patients and doctors.

Let us examine the story again and see if we cannot arrive at a reason for his behavior. Most hypochondriacs have an intense fear of disease. Few of them really enjoy the terror of illness and would certainly much prefer a more healthy attitude to living.

At home you bear the brunt of your husband's anxieties because his own protective devices are let down and he can more readily express his fears. His "new personality at the doctor's office" is an attempt to maintain some semblance of dignity so that he can avoid embarrassment.

May I suggest that you discuss this entire situation with your doctor while you are alone and are not caught in this strange emotional trap. At the same time you can ask your doctor to suggest some psychological guidance that may uncover the reasons for your husband's emotional distress. Hypochondriacs are deprived of the real joys of living and would much prefer to be free of their unrealistic fears.

Can a person be tested for an allergy to anesthesia before an operation? I am deadly afraid to undergo an operation because of this.

Mrs. R.R., Kentucky
Dear Mrs. R.: There are no preoperative tests for allergy to a specific general anesthetic. There are, however, many safety devices that take the major hazards out of anesthesia. The modern anesthesiologist is a remarkably well-trained doctor who carefully chooses a particular anesthesia for each individual case.

Before any surgery is done, the heart and lungs are carefully checked and, if there is a special problem, an

Ignorant Armies Clash

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

When I was in Switzerland last December I listened to some half-joking, half-serious discussion of something called the Schwarzenbach Amendment. The brainchild of James Schwarzenbach, a Zurich publisher, this proposal, if adopted in a referendum, would have expelled 300,000 foreign workers from Swiss soil. Since Switzerland depends on 600,000 foreigners who do most of the unpleasant jobs in the country, including the sweeping of the meticulously clean streets, my friends thought the whole proposition quite mad. But lo and behold, when the referendum was held last week the Schwarzenbach proposal was defeated by a close vote of 654,000 to 557,000. A 5 per cent shift in the referendum pattern would have resulted in the ruination of Swiss industry, leaving the big metal-working establishments, the road and tunnel-building companies and the hotels and restaurants on which the Swiss economy depends without the manpower necessary to keep them going.

How could 46 per cent of the people in a progressive modern nation contemplate voting the bread out of their own mouths? Willi Schlamm, who left the U.S. to take up residence in Lugano, in the Italian section of Switzerland, after a distinguished career in American journalism as an adviser to Henry Luce of Time and Life, laughed when I asked him the question. The Swiss, he said, actually have very little animus against foreign workers; since their country is trilingual, made up of German, French and Italian stock, the people of Switzerland are used to differences. In Schlamm's opinion the big turnout for the Schwarzenbach Amendment represented nothing less nor more than a mounting disgust with the conditions of life in the modern world.

Willi Schlamm has been visiting the U.S. after a prolonged absence. He thinks we are in much worse shape than the Swiss.

"Your country," he says, "is on the verge of ten years of civil war. It will not be the class war that Marx envisaged. It will be the people versus the intellectuals." Like the Schwarzenbachians in Switzerland, the "silent majority" in the U.S. is simply disgusted with where events have taken them.

Willi has been talking with American labor leaders, and he asked one of them if Walter Reuther would be missed in the Automobile Workers Union. He was surprised to hear from his presumably well-informed source that Reuther, among the blue-collar rank-and-file of the auto workers, was a tolerated rather than a revered figure. Reuther's Utopianism, so Willi was informed, was something out of the Roosevelt Decade, an ideological hangover. The blue-collar workers, who have had a hard enough time moving upwards into a middle-class range of life, watch incredulously as college kids, but, more than that, they blame the faculties, the college presidents, the deans, the whole educational apparatus, for letting things come to our present pass.

So Schlamm sees the "hard hats" as representing the avant garde of the anti-intellectual rebellion against the permissive rich, the students, and a big-city, eastern-orientated communications setup that has lost touch with "middle America." The Black Panthers, who have a dedicated leadership, might engage in a revolt that would parallel the student revolt, says Willi, and, though they are distinct minority among the Negroes, they might hold a number of central city fortresses as hostages. However, they would be defeated. The outcome of the people - versus - the intellectuals battle is less certain. But, says Willi, it will be fought to a bitter finish.

One is indebted to a foreign view for a certain clarity that one cannot achieve when one is immersed in local situation. What Schlamm shocks me into seeing is that few people in the U.S. seem to be fighting for a cause that has any tangible objective. The college rebels know what they hate; they do not have the ghost of an idea of what they would put in its place. Our unintelligent intellectuals have lost sight of the conditions that make for national preservation; they are willing to let our enemies encircle our friends and creep up to our frontiers. The concept of the balance of power is no longer taught in history classes. Our capitalists don't believe in themselves; industry is no longer an adventure. So, as the poet Matthew Arnold said, "we are here as on a darkling plain . . . where ignorant armies clash by night."

And we can't escape to Switzerland, for the world's malaise is there, too.

Tahitian Hits

By BOB THOMAS

AP Television-Movie Writer

PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP) — Robert Stack straps on his shoulder holster, checks his automatic and says to his fellow crime fighters: "Allons!"

What is Elliott Ness doing in Tahiti? The fact is that "The Untouchables"—the French-language version—has proved to be one of the most popular attractions on Tahitian television. Other American hits have been "Bonanza" and "The Invaders."

The tourist visitor, overwhelmed by the physical attractions of French Polynesia, might consider television as superfluous as snowshoes. But the natives appear to love it.

Tahitian television, which began in 1964, is now received by 7,500 home sets. That's not much by U.S. standards, but the number is remarkable when you realize that the signal extends only to Papeete's population: 30,000 and its closest environs, plus the opposite shore of Bali Hailike Moorea, 12 miles away.

Consider also the small earnings of most Tahitians and the cost of television sets—$200 to $300. How do the natives manage to become set owners?

"Very simple," says Jean Suhas, a former Paris journalist, who directs the television operation. "In many cases three families will have homes on the same communal property. So they put their money together and buy a set they all can watch."

Americans would find the local television schedule spare—it's 3 1/2 hours on weekends and 4 1/2 on weeknights, starting at 6:30. Three times a week, lessons in English, French, science and other education subjects are offered for the youthful audience.

The nightly schedule begins with a half-hour of cartoons and serials for the small fry, then the news. Then come variety shows and series, some from the United States but the bulk from France. From 15 to 18 per cent of all programming is of local origin.

Tahitian television is operated by the French government-owned ORTF. Mon dieu, no commercials!

"This country pays nothing for television," directors Suhas remarked proudly. "All expenses are paid by the French government. We do allow one hour and 50 minutes of commercials on the radio, which broadcasts 10 hours a day; but I ship that income right back to Paris."

The most popular programs for Tahitians? American Western movies.

Initial steps were taken by elementary students to clear the High Street Elementary School of books and other gear. Demolition of the old building was begun immediately to make room for the new elementary structure for use in September.

Remodeling of the firehouse on E. Franklin St. to make way for the new ladder truck uncovered many reminders of the past. Bushels of oats and hay chaff were discovered between the ceiling and the floor of the loft overhead. The kitchen and living area revealed wooden bricks paving the floor made of yellow pine and soaked in tar.

Samuel Sharp died in Dayton Veterans Hospital at the age of 82. The Pickaway County veteran was a pioneer in early aviation, serving as a pilot in World War I and as a commercial aviator and one of the first air mail pilots.

Timber cutting crews began initial steps in the construction of the Deer Creek Reservoir, cutting trees and undergrowth from the area.

Pickaway County Country Club's junior team went to victory over seven other teams in the first Southeastern Ohio Golf Assn. Juniors Tournament. They were led by Bruce Helwagen, a CHS graduate, who made a par 72 on two nine hole matches.

Dr. J. P. Gardner "the poet laureate of the saddle horse world" was guest speaker at a Kiwanis meeting. A Kingston resident, Gardner was well known as a breeder of Tennessee walking horses, and for his hobby of writing poetry.

Debt Practices

One consumer area where there is a potential for much abuse is debt collection. Now the federal government is finally taking an interest through the National Commission on Consumer Finance, a creation of Congress in its 1968 Truth-in-Lending Law.

The commission plans to hold hearings later this month on the use of high pressure tactics to collect retail debts. The commission will explore the "holder in due course" practice.

The unwholesome archaism immunizes a bank or finance company from responsibility if it buys a homeowner's note from the vendor of a service or product that later proves faulty, although the leading institution still can collect on the note.

Certainly, any debtor has an obligation, both legal and moral, to make repayment. But the circumstances under which debts are to be discharged ought to reflect fair play.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The word "recycle" is becoming relatively common today in the vocabulary of American business, but the word is really just a label for an old, old problem:

You really can't throw anything away anymore; you never could, either, because there is no "away."

Man has tried, of course, because the countryside is littered with automobile hulks, cans, tires, bottles, newspapers and other assorted trash that was discarded. But this is merely mute evidence of failure.

Once it wasn't so noticeable, because human beings didn't congregate so densely. Moreover, never before in history has man ever taken nature's materials and changed them in such abundance into other things.

Conscious that criticism of the pockmarked landscape can be escalated into legislation, many companies have begun programs to collect the litter and, in an old business tradition, try to make a buck by reusing, or recycling it.

General Motors this week began a project in Traverse City, Mich. to test the economics of collecting and processing junk cars. Only 2,000 to 3,000 abandoned cars litter the area, but it is the collection method that is being tested.

Glass companies are trying to make old bottles useful and have determined that they may be ground and recycled as an ingredient of highways rather than as litter along them. Same with rubber tires.

Not certain any more that their responsibility ends with the successful use of their products, can makers are attempting to set up reclamation systems for their products after the contents have been drained.

Reynolds Metals learned from a pilot program in Los Angeles that the public, when offered 1/2 cent for an old aluminum can, will willingly help clear away litter. Expansion into 17 states is set for this year.

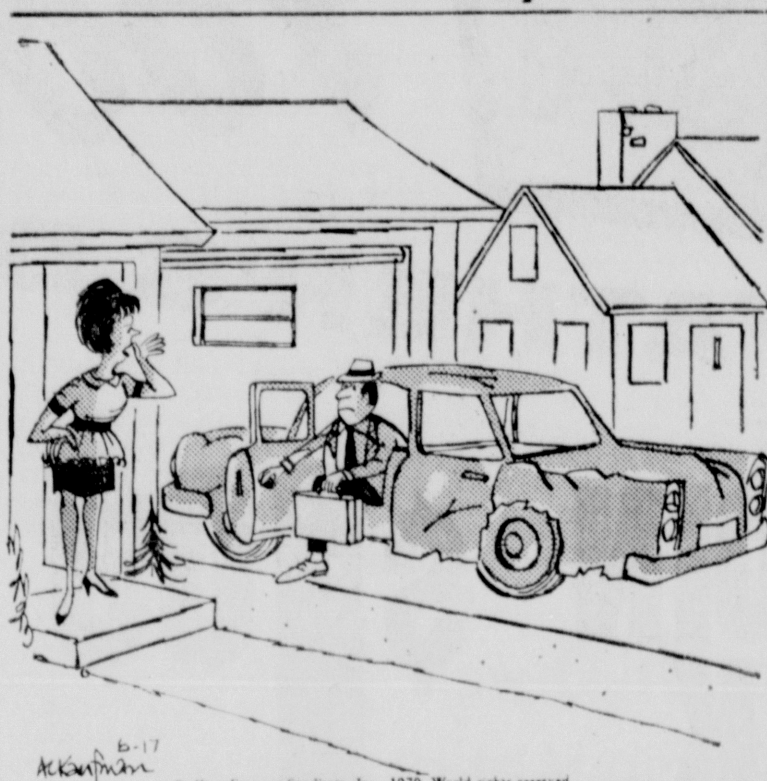

A rival manufacturer, Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical, recently announced a recycling program in the San Francisco Bay Area that offers individuals and groups 10 cents a pound for all-aluminum cans.

Kaiser's cost estimates suggest that the problem of litter not only is an unsightly one but terribly wasteful. M. D. Eese, chairman of the project, estimates that $1 million in cans is tossed away in the Bay Area each year.

The makers of steel cans also are active. Continental Can Co. recently supplied 30 tons of scrap beer cans to a National Steel Corp. facility in Weirton, W. Va., where they were mixed with other ingredients to produce steel sheets.

The experiment was made in an attempt to overcome some of the problems of using scrap, such as contamination from other metals and from the enamels and paints applied to attract the eye of retail customers.

An important American businessman, visiting London for the first time, was taken to the tennis matches at Wimbledon by an Englishman anxious to be awarded the local franchise for the American's product. "I wonder," he said with his most ingratiating smile, "if you know a chap out there in New York named Smith?" "There must be about thirty thousand Smiths in New York," smiled the American. "Can you identify the one you're referring to more exactly?" "Oh, you couldn't miss this run character," the Londoner assured him. "Had a shooting box next to mine. Ran off with my wife, I believe. Worse still, I saw him shoot a pheasant on the ground. It was coming toward him, too!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My husband, a hypochondriac, is scared to death of all kinds of diseases. When I go with him to a doctor, he becomes a new personality and I hardly recognize him. Instead of complaining to the doctor, he pretends that he is gay and absolutely unconcerned and that he is doing all of this for my benefit. How would you handle this so that he will stop fooling himself?

Mrs. H.I., Florida
Dear Mrs. I: You are wise to recognize such relatively strange behavior. You can be sure that this would not come as a surprise to your doctor if you spoke to him about it. This is not an unusual situation in the relationship between patients and doctors.

Let us examine the story again and see if we cannot arrive at a reason for his behavior. Most hypochondriacs have an intense fear of disease. Few of them really enjoy the terror of illness and would certainly much prefer a more healthy attitude to living.

At home you bear the brunt of your husband's anxieties because his own protective devices are let down and he can more readily express his fears. His "new personality at the doctor's office" is an attempt to maintain some semblance of dignity so that he can avoid embarrassment.

May I suggest that you discuss this entire situation with your doctor while you are alone and are not caught in this strange emotional trap. At the same time you can ask your doctor to suggest some psychological guidance that may uncover the reasons for your husband's emotional distress. Hypochondriacs are deprived of the real joys of living and would much prefer to be free of their unrealistic fears.

Can a person be tested for an allergy to anesthesia before an operation? I am deeply afraid to undergo an operation because of this.

Mrs. R.R., Kentucky
Dear Mrs. R.: There are no preoperative tests for allergy to a specific general anesthetic. There are, however, many safety devices that take the major hazards out of anesthesia. The modern anesthesiologist is a remarkably well-trained doctor who carefully chooses a particular anesthesia for each individual case.

Before any surgery is done, the heart and lungs are carefully checked and, if there is a special problem, an

Ignorant Armies Clash

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

When I was in Switzerland last December I listened to some half-joking, half-serious discussion of something called the Schwarzenbach Amendment. The brainchild of James Schwarzenbach, a Zurich publisher, this proposal, if adopted in a referendum, would have expelled 300,000 foreign workers from Swiss soil. Since Switzerland depends on 600,000 foreigners who do most of the unpleasant jobs in the country, including the sweeping of the meticulously clean streets, my friends thought the whole proposition quite mad. But to behold, when the referendum was held last week the Schwarzenbach proposal was defeated by a close vote of 654,000 to 557,000. A 3 per cent shift in the referendum pattern would have resulted in the ruin of Swiss industry, leaving the big metal-working establishments, the road and tunnel-building companies and the hotels and restaurants on which the Swiss economy depends without the manpower necessary to keep them going.

How could 46 per cent of the people in a progressive modern nation contemplate voting the bread out of their own mouths? Willi Schlamm, who left the U.S. to take up residence in Lugano, in the Italian section of Switzerland, after a distinguished career in American journalism as an adviser to Henry Luce of Time and Life, laughed when I asked him the question. The Swiss, he said, actually have very little animus against foreign workers; since their country is tri-lingual, made up of German, French and Italian stock, the people of Switzerland are used to differences. In Schlamm's opinion the big turnout for the Schwarzenbach Amendment represented nothing less nor more than a mounting disgust with the conditions of life in the modern world.

Willi Schlamm has been visiting the U.S. after a prolonged absence. He thinks we are in much worse shape than the Swiss.

"Your country," he says, "is on the verge of ten years of civil war. It will not be the class war that Marx envisaged. It will be the people versus the intellectuals." Like the Schwarzenbachians in Switzerland, the "silent majority" in the U.S. is simply disgusted with where events have taken them.

Willi has been talking with American labor leaders, and he asked one of them if Walter Reuther would be missed in the Automobile Workers Union. He was surprised to hear from his presumably well-informed source that Reuther, among the blue-collar rank-and-file of the auto workers, was a tolerated rather than a revered figure. Reuther's Utopianism, so Willi was informed, was something out of the Roosevelt Decade, an ideological hangover. The blue-collar workers, who have had a hard enough time moving upwards into a middle-class range of life, watch incredulously as college kids, but more than that, they blame the faculties, the college presidents, the deans, the whole educational apparatus, for letting things come to our present pass.

So Schlamm sees the "hard hats" as representing the avant garde of the anti-intellectual rebellion against the permissive rich, the students, and a big city, eastern-orientated communications setup that has lost touch with "middle America." The Black Panthers, who have a dedicated leadership, might engage in a revolt that would parallel the student revolt, says Willi, and, though they are distinct minority among the Negroes, they might hold a number of central city fortresses as hostages. However, they would be defeated. The outcome of the people-versus-the-intellectuals battle is less certain. But, says Willi, it will be fought to a bitter finish.

One is indebted to a foreign view for a certain clarity that one cannot achieve when one is immersed in local situation. What Schlamm shocks me into seeing is that few people in the U.S. seem to be fighting for a cause that has any tangible objective. The college rebels know what they hate; they do not have the ghost of an idea of what they would put in its place. Harlo's They'll Do It Every Time

Monday Is News Gathering Day For Correspondent

By BETTY DAWLEY
Herald Staff Writer

Monday may be wash day for many housewives but for Mrs. Frances Furniss of Route 3, Mt. Sterling it is the day to compile neighborhood news items as the Herald Five Points correspondent.

Actually, Mrs. Furniss (pronounced as furnace) can almost be classified as a syndicated columnist. Her weekly correspondence appears also in the Williamsport News and Mt. Sterling Tribune, both weekly publications.

She says she enjoys doing the column or she wouldn't be doing it. "I would miss it if I didn't do it," she added, and is qualified to make the statement having had her by-line on Five Points News for nearly 10 years.

Born in Madison County, she has resided in the Five Points community since 1910 and has lived on the same farm three and one-half miles northeast of the village for 35 years.

SHE is one of the four remaining survivors of Monroe Twp. High School graduating class of 1919 which numbered six seniors.

MRS. FRANCES FURNISS

Her reporting career began when, as a member of WCTU, she responsibly recorded meetings for the newspaper. She was asked to write a weekly community news column and accepted. She has continued her duties in public relations for not only WCTU but various area clubs and organizations with which she is affiliated.

A teacher and regular attendant in adult class of Five Points Methodist Church, her social column is prefaced with an accounting of the church and school attendance. If readers have missed the customary beginning recently its because "attendance has been so low, I'm ashamed to have to repeat it," Mrs. Furniss said. To oblige our request, she will resume the accounting.

Age unknown (you don't ask a lady her age), Mrs. Furniss is active for any age. In addition to teaching Sunday School, she is a member of and treasurer for WSCS, a charter member of Star Grange and Monrovia Garden Club and

PUCO To Probe Telephone Use

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio is expected to set up a special committee to study use of telephones for business solicitations and possibly recommend higher rates for the service.

The committee was proposed by phone company spokesmen at a PUCO hearing Tuesday. The hearing recessed until Dec. 1, when committee findings are expected to be ready.

The commission had expressed concern that telephone solicitations tie up phone circuits continuously, reducing the ability of phone companies to service the public.

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS wrapped up its "60 Minutes" series for the season Tuesday night with a program that consisted primarily of a couple of interesting ideas that did not pan out too conclusively.

Mike Wallace and a camera team accompanied a planeload of soldiers en route to their year tour in Vietnam. Three days later they flew home with a planeload of veterans. In Wallace interviews on both trips, most comments and opinions on the war, on their own and the nation's involvement and on protests in the United States were about the same as found in any man-on-the-street sampling at home.

Wallace polled the men on both trips. Outbound, he found 120 soldiers in favor of U.S. involvement in Vietnam, 78 against and nine asleep. Homebound, the vote was 148 for involvement, 46 against and 14 asleep.

One sidelight of interest was the way today's soldiers ride off to war and return: by commercial airliner complete with stewardesses.

This was followed by a report by Harry Reasoner on his conversations in Spain. Enforcement of drug laws is tough and a conviction for trafficking in marijuana—from giving a cigarette to a friend to handling it in quantity—carries a minimum sentence of six years and one day.

Reasoner visited a couple of Spanish prisons where some Americans seemed calm about their plight. The institutions seemed clean and there seemed to be no doubt that the Americans inside had been involved with marijuana or hashish.

One young man, AWOL from the Army and traveling with several passports, had been arrested with three friends—two of them were girl friends who were free on bail because both were pregnant.

It was hard to feel very sympathetic about these free souls and was hard not to wonder about their parents since many obviously came from middle-income families.

For the third feature, the producers found a jazz band packing in after-work crowds in a New York hotel grill room. Half tongue in cheek, this was heralded as the beginning of a re-

Dedication Of National Shrine Slated

The Etam Church, on the Chillicothe United Methodist Charge, will be dedicated as a National shrine of the United Methodist Denomination at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday. This church is located on the Walnut Creek Road, approximately twelve miles east of Chillicothe, Ohio, and about eight miles south of Hallsville. The Etam Church is the oldest former United Brethren Church this side of the Allegheny Mountains.

The building was erected in 1810. It was originally constructed of logs, and measured 36 feet by 24 feet. John Ortmann Sr., a pioneer of Harrison Twp., in Ross County, donated the land on which the church was built. For a time, this building had only a dirt floor. Later flooring of matched boards was put in.

Originally, it was heated by a charcoal burner. There was no chimney or fireplace for years. The charcoal burner was located in the center of the building, and the smoke was emitted through an opening in the roof. We are told that remains of the charcoal pits are still under the building, covered by the flooring. Some seventy years ago the building was covered with siding, and has been kept painted to this day, the color being white.

There was a decline and 'almost' abandonment of the Etam Church in the late 1920's and early 1930's, but through the persuasion of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cryder (Mrs. Cryder was a granddaughter of John Ortmann Sr.), new interest was aroused among the people of the community. The church was rejuvenated and restored, a new vestibule and belfry, complete with bell, was erected at the south end of the original building.

Vernon McFadden is the present pastor, and the church is still quite active with weekly services of Sunday School, worship, and prayer.

The Conference superintendent, Dr. Harold Dutt, the Ohio Southeast Conference historian, Rev. H. Eugene Flowers, the pastor of the church and the church trustees will participate in the dedicatory service. The public is cordially invited to this historical event.

Monday Is News Gathering Day For Correspondent

By BETTY DAWLEY
Herald Staff Writer

Monday may be wash day for many housewives but for Mrs. Frances Furniss of Route 3, Mt. Sterling it is the day to compile neighborhood news items as the Herald Five Points correspondent.

Actually, Mrs. Furniss (pronounced as furnace) can almost be classified as a syndicated columnist. Her weekly correspondence appears also in the Williamsport News and Mt. Sterling Tribune, both weekly publications.

She says she enjoys doing the column or she wouldn't be doing it. "I would miss it if I didn't do it," she added, and is qualified to make the statement having had her by-line on Five Points News for nearly 10 years.

PUCO To Probe Telephone Use

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio is expected to set up a special committee to study use of telephones for business solicitations and possibly recommend higher rates for the service.

The committee was proposed by phone company spokesmen at a PUCO hearing Tuesday. The hearing recessed until Dec. 1, when committee findings are expected to be ready.

The commission had expressed concern that telephone solicitations tie up phone circuits continuously, reducing the ability of phone companies to service the public.

Del Corso Suit Ruling Coming Up

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A ruling is expected later this week in Franklin County Common Pleas Court on a taxpayers' suit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio against Adj. Gen. Sylvester Del Corso and Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The ACLU repeated its charge in a court hearing Tuesday that Del Corso used state money and personnel to send letters to guardsmen and others urging them to support the President's Indochina policies.

Del Corso said he paid the cost of sending the letters. His attorney, Brooke Alloway, said Del Corso may owe the state $20 for use of equipment.

The adjutant general said he acted in the proper function of his office "to support the President" when sending the letters. He said he thought campus demonstrations against the war were a threat to the nation's security.

Rhodes did not appear at Tuesday's hearing.

The ACLU filed the suit on behalf of State Rep. Thomas E. Hill, D-Cleveland, Mrs. William H. Wright, Cincinnati, and Mrs. Alvina Littlefield, Toledo.

Athens Residents Reject Fluoridation

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Voters here have turned down plans to fluoridate the city's water supply. The vote was 638 for, 893 against in a special election Tuesday.

State law requires fluoridation, beginning next year, unless voters turn it down.

For the third feature, the producers found a jazz band packing in after-work crowds in a New York hotel grill room. Half tongue in cheek, this was heralded as the beginning of a re-surge of the jazz bands—the "now sound of 1938," Reasoner called it. This seemed to be conclusion jumping since it takes more than one swallow or one jazz band to create a trend, particularly this summer.

"60 minutes" will fill some time during the next three months by repeating highlights of the past season's shows.

Miss Mary Beth Hettinger Bride Of Jim E. Kensey

MRS. JIM E. KENSEY

The altar of the United Methodist Church of Commercial Point, was adorned with vases of pink and white snapdragons and white daisies, flanked by candelabra and two large baskets of pink and white gladoli, for the wedding of Miss Mary Beth Hettinger and Lt. Jim E. Kensey.

Rev. R. C. Wetherell performed the double ring ceremony 7:30 p.m., June 6, for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hettinger, Commercial Point, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kensey, Grove City.

Mrs. Robert Browning, organist, and Mr. Robert Schneider, vocalist, presented a program of nuptial music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She approached the altar down the aisle where pews were marked with rose and white satin bows. She selected for her wedding a floor length bouffant gown of nylon organza with a redingote effect over a tiered ruffled front. The bodice was of acetate and nylon lace with a scalloped neckline trimmed with tiny seed pearls and long sleeves buttoning at the wrist. The detachable court train had lace inserts and edging to match the gown. The fingertip length veil of Venice lace and organza petals fell from a pearl and crystal demi crown. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white sweetheart roses and white carnations in green ivy with white satin bows and streamers.

Mrs. D. R. Crego served as matron of honor. She was attired in a floor length gown of pink chiffon over taffeta, fashioned shirtwaist style, with a full skirt, long sleeves, and trimmed with a satin belt. Her headpiece was a cluster of flowers with a fingertip veil in a deep rose. She carried a bouquet of deep rose carnations. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Beckman and Miss Ann Peters. They were dressed identically to the matron of honor except their headpieces were pink and they carried bouquets of pink and white carnations. Each attendant wore a rose design bracelet which were gifts of the bride.

Rhonda Neff and Amy Jo Peters, cousins of the bride, were junior bridesmaid and flower girl respectively. They were attired in floor length gowns of pink chiffon over taffeta, styled similar to the matron of honor and bridesmaids. Lance Jones was ringbearer.

Performing the duties of best man was Mr. Kenneth Kensey, brother of the groom. Ushers were Mr. Charles Clymer, Jr., Mr. John Renick, Mr. William Fyffe, Mr. Karl Schneider, and Mr. Duwane Kensey brother of the groom.

Mrs. Hettinger selected a turquoise shantung dress with white accessories. Mrs. Kensey was attired in a tunic effect dress of pink lace over chiffon with bone accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of pink carnations.

A reception in the Fellowship Hall immediately followed the ceremony. A four-tiered cake topped with a miniature groom in army uniform and bride centered the refreshment table. Pink and rose carnations intertwined with greenery were laid around the cake. The bride's table was decorated with pink and white snapdragons and daisies and long white candles. Hostesses were Mrs. F. L. Wilkins, Mrs. B. F. Grace, Mrs. Lawrence Neff, Mrs. Richard Kensey, Mrs. Marguerite Stough, and Mrs. Doris Renick. Mrs. Everett Phillips presided at the guest book.

For a short wedding trip throughout southeastern Ohio, the bride wore a pink A-line dress with white accessories and a corsage of white roses and carnations from her wedding bouquet.

The new Mrs. Kensey is a graduate of Teays Valley High School and was formerly employed by the State of Ohio, Department of Natural Resources. Lt. Kensey is a graduate of Pleasantview High School, Ohio State University, and was formerly employed by the State of Ohio, Department of Natural Resources.

The couple now resides in Prince George, Va., where the groom is presently serving in the U. S. Army at Ft. Lee.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Washington, D. C., and Illinois.

Atlanta School Alumni Banquet Held Saturday

Pickaway County Extension Agent, George Hamrick, was the speaker for the Atlanta High School Alumni Banquet held at Westfall High School Saturday evening. His talk on pollution was interspersed with laugh provoking stories.

Musical memories honoring the classes of 1920, '30, '40, '50 and '60 were presented by soprano, Lorna Poling, and baritone, Donald Frank. Miss Poling opened the program with Victor Herbert's, "Italian Street Song" from his operetta, "Naughty Marietta." For the "old grads" of 1930 Miss Poling and Mr. Frank sang "As Time Goes By" and Mr. Frank sang, "With A Song In My Heart." "My Own True Love" from the theme music of the popular movie "Gone With the Wind" was their next duet. For the class of 1950, Miss Vanessa Mills played, "Loveliest Night of the Year." For the class of 1960 Miss Poling and Mr. Frank chose two duets from musicals popular at that time. They sang the theme song from "Sound of Music" and "Love Makes the World Go Round" from "Carnival." Miss Mills was the piano accompanist for the vocal numbers.

Also on the program were members of the Reading Theater of Roundtown Players, who presented an amusing series of interpretive readings, "It All Started With Hippocrates" from the Richard Armour book, "A Mercifully Brief History Of Medicine." Readers were Mrs. Allen Berger, Mrs. Larry Blum, Wes Jones, Tom Matesky and James Stambaugh. Dr. Dustin Sinson of Clarksburg, served as toastmaster and the invocation was given by Dick Somers.

During the business session conducted by the president, Ronnie Morris, the alumni members discussed deterioration of the Atlanta school building and voted to hold the next meeting in three years. Elected to serve as officers in 1973 were Mrs. Ray Dudson of Mt. Sterling as president, Paul Morris, vice president; Mrs. Gerald Stephenson, secretary and John Roberts, treasurer.

Officers who planned the 1970 banquet were Ronnie Morris, president; Mrs. Harold Warner, vice president; Mrs. Sterling Poling, secretary and James Hamman, treasurer.

Women's Page The Circleville Herald, Wed. June 17, 1970 Miss Margaret Ann West Weds Mr. James Kuebler

Beechwood Church of Christ, Columbus, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Margaret Ann West and Mr. James Daniel Kuebler, Saturday, June 13.

Rev. James W. Greenwood solemnized the marriage vows for the daughter of Mrs. James D. West, 648 N. Court St., and the late Mr. James D. West, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kuebler, Lorain, Ohio.

Vases of white mums, carnations and greenery, and candelabra decorated the altar. The aisle pews were marked with large white satin bows.

The bride was given in marriage by her half-brother, Mr. Charles E. Wellman. She selected for her wedding day a gown of nylon organza with a yoke of acetate and nylon lace. Lace motifs trimmed the front and cuffs of the gown. The detachable Watteau train was bordered with matching lace. Organza sheer petals and Venice lace outlined with simulated pearls held the bride's nylon tulle veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and yellow sweetheart roses interspersed with lily of the valley and baby's breath.

Miss Carolyn West served her sister as maid of honor. She was attired in a floor length gown of light yellow with Empire waist, high neckline and sleeves trimmed in lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow carnations decorated with floor length moss green velvet ribbon. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Janet Kay West, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Carol Ann Kuebler, sister of the groom, and Miss Peggy K. Coldwell, former roommate of the bride. They were dressed as the maid of honor and carried similar bouquets.

Robert Anthony Kuebler, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Mr. Thomas Paul Kuebler and Mr. George Edward Kuebler, brothers of the groom, and Mr. Philip Dean Clady, college roommate of the groom.

Mrs. West wore a light blue dress of lace over taffeta with full length lace sleeves, white accessories and a pink cymbidium orchid corsage. Mrs. Kuebler was attired in a pink linen and lace dress with white accessories and a mint green cymbidium orchid corsage.

A reception in the church Fellowship Hall followed the ceremony. Hostesses were Mrs. George E. Kuebler, Mrs. Thomas P. Kuebler, Mrs. Charles Wellman, Miss Sharon Elaine Williams and Miss Darlene Miller.

For a wedding trip to Washington D.C. and Williamsburg, Va., the bride chose to wear a brown and white linen dress with white accessories and the corsage from her wedding bouquet. The couple now resides at 4675 Coldsprings Court, Apt. A, Columbus.

The new Mrs. Kuebler is a graduate of Portsmouth High School and Riverside-White Cross School of Nursing in Columbus. She is presently employed by Riverside Methodist Hospital.

Miss Mary Beth Hettinger Bride Of Jim E. Kensey

MRS. JIM E. KENSEY

The altar of the United Methodist Church of Commercial Point, was adorned with vases of pink and white snapdragons and white daisies, flanked by candelabra and two large baskets of pink and white gladioli, for the wedding of Miss Mary Beth Hettinger and Lt. Jim E. Kensey.

Rev. R. C. Wetherell performed the double ring ceremony 7:30 p.m., June 6, for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hettinger, Commercial Point, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kensey, Grove City.

Mrs. Robert Browning, organist, and Mr. Robert Schneider, vocalist, presented a program of nuptial music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She approached the altar down the aisle where pews were marked with rose and white satin bows. She selected for her wedding a floor length bouffant gown of nylon organza with a redingote effect over a tiered ruffled front. The bodice was of acetate and nylon lace with a scalloped neckline trimmed with tiny seed pearls and long sleeves buttoning at the wrist. The detachable court train had lace inserts and edging to match the gown. The fingertip length veil of Venice lace and organza petals fell from a pearl and crystal demi crown. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white sweetheart roses and white carnations in green ivy with white satin bows and streamers.

Mrs. D. R. Crego served as matron of honor. She was attired in a floor length gown of pink chiffon over taffeta, fashioned shirtwaist style, with a full skirt, long sleeves, and trimmed with a satin belt. Her headpiece was a cluster of flowers with a fingertip veil in a deep rose. She carried a bouquet of deep rose carnations.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Beckman and Miss Ann Peters. They were dressed identically to the matron of honor except their headpieces were pink and they carried bouquets of pink and white carnations. Each attendant wore a rose design bracelet which were gifts of the bride.

Rhonda Neff and Amy Jo Peters, cousins of the bride, were junior bridesmaid and flower girl respectively. They were attired in floor length gowns of pink chiffon over taffeta, styled similar to the matron of honor and bridesmaids. Lance Jones was ringbearer.

Atlanta School Alumni Banquet Held Saturday

Pickaway County Extension Agent, George Hamrick, was the speaker for the Atlanta High School Alumni Banquet held at Westfall High School Saturday evening. His talk on pollution was interspersed with laugh provoking stories.

Musical memories honoring the classes of 1920, '30, '40, '50 and '60 were presented by soprano, Lorna Poling, and baritone, Donald Frank. Miss Poling opened the program with Victor Herbert's, "Italian Street Song" from his operetta, "Naughty Marietta." For the "old grads" of 1930 Miss Poling and Mr. Frank sang "As Time Goes By" and Mr. Frank sang, "With A Song In My Heart". "My Own True Love" from the theme music of the popular movie "Gone With the Wind" was their next duet. For the class of 1950, Miss Vanessa Mills played, "Loveliest Night of the Year." For the class of 1960 Miss Poling and Mr. Frank chose two duets from musicals popular at that time. They sang the theme song from "Sound of Music" and "Love Makes the World Go Round" from "Carnival". Miss Mills was the piano accompanist for the vocal numbers.

Also on the program were members of the Reading Theater of Roundtown Players, who presented an amusing series of interpretive readings, "It All Started With Hippocrates" from the Richard Armour book, "A Mercifully Brief History Of Medicine." Readers were Mrs. A. Allen Berger, Mrs. Larry Blum, Wes Jones, Tom Matesky and James Stambaugh. Dr. Dustin Stinson of Clarksburg, served as toastmaster and the invocation was given by Dick Somers.

During the business session conducted by the president, Ronnie Morris, the alumni members discussed deterioration of the Atlanta school building and voted to hold the next meeting in three years. Elected to serve as officers in 1973 were Mrs. Ray Dudson of Mt. Sterling as president, Paul Morris, vice president; Mrs. Gerald Stephenson, secretary and John Roberts, treasurer.

Officers who planned the 1970 banquet were Ronnie Morris, president; Mrs. Harold Warner, vice president; Mrs. Sterling Poling, secretary and James Hamman, treasurer.

Miss Margaret Ann West Weds Mr. James Kuebler

Beechwood Church of Christ, Columbus, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Margaret Ann West and Mr. James Daniel Kuebler, Saturday, June 13.

Rev. James W. Greenwood solemnized the marriage vows for the daughter of Mrs. James D. West, 648 N. Court St., and the late Mr. James D. West, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kuebler, Lorain, Ohio.

Vases of white mums, carnations and greenery, and candelabra decorated the altar. The aisle pews were marked with large white satin bows.

The bride was given in marriage by her half-brother, Mr. Charles E. Wellman. She selected for her wedding day a gown of nylon organza with a yoke of acetate and nylon lace. Lace motifs trimmed the front and cuffs of the gown. The detachable Watteau train was bordered with matching lace. Organza sheer petals and Venice lace outlined with simulated pearls held the bride's nylon tulle veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and yellow sweetheart roses interspersed with lily of the valley and baby's breath.

Miss Carolyn West served her sister as maid of honor. She was attired in a floor length gown of light yellow with Empire waist, high neckline and sleeves trimmed in lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow carnations decorated with floor length moss green velvet ribbon. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Janet Kay West, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Carol Ann Kuebler, sister of the groom, and Miss Peggy K. Coldwell, former roommate of the bride. They were dressed as the maid of honor and carried similar bouquets.

Robert Anthony Kuebler, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Mr. Thomas Paul Kuebler and Mr. George Edward Kuebler, brothers of the groom, and Mr. Philip Dean Clady, college roommate of the groom.

Mrs. West wore a light blue dress of lace over taffeta with full length lace sleeves, white accessories and a pink cymbidium orchid corsage. Mrs. Kuebler was attired in a pink linen and lace dress with white accessories and a mint green cymbidium orchid corsage.

A reception in the church Fellowship Hall followed the ceremony. Hostesses were Mrs. George E. Kuebler, Mrs. Thomas P. Kuebler, Mrs. Charles Wellman, Miss Sharon Elaine Williams and Miss Darlene Miller.

For a wedding trip to Washington D.C. and Williamsburg, Va., the bride chose to wear a brown and white linen dress with white accessories and the corsage from her wedding bouquet.

The couple now resides at 4675 Coldsprings Court, Apt. A, Columbus.

The new Mrs. Kuebler is a graduate of Portsmouth High School and Riverside-White Cross School of Nursing in Columbus. She is presently employed by Riverside Methodist Hospital.

Mr. Kuebler is a graduate of Elyria High School and will graduate in August from Ohio State University in the school of electrical engineering. He is a member of Eta Kappa Nu, electrical engineering honorary. Upon graduation he will be employed by the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

Five Points News

By Mrs. Francis Furniss

There were 31 present at the United Methodist Sunday School Sunday morning. Lay speaker, Mr. Richard Everman delivered the sermon in the absence of our minister, Rev. Lillian Wright, who had gone to Lakeside for the Conference. There were 72 present for worship services.

The Monroe Township Advisory Council No. 10 held their June meeting Wednesday evening June 10, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Porter with fifteen members answering roll call. The chairman Clyde Michel opened the meeting and conducted the business session. The secretary, Mrs. Francis Furniss, read the report of the last meeting and the group voted to retain the old officers for the coming year. They also decided to have our annual picnic on August 12 at Marion State Park at 6:30 p.m. The topic, "What is the Future of the Rural Churches?" was read and discussed. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Michel, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Follrod, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss, Miss Laura Long, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. Elbee Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Stubbs and son Mark, and Mr. and Mrs. Porter. The July meeting will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Dennis.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dawson moved to their newly purchased home in Circleville last week. Their new address is 111 East Water Street, Circleville, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Elbee Jones were guests at a family dinner Saturday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jones in Columbus.

Nixon Says Free Press A Guardian

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says while he may not always agree with what he reads in the newspapers he recognizes an unfettered press is a "guardian of freedom."

The President's words of praise came Monday night during informal remarks at a White House reception for members of the International Federation of Newspapers.

Earlier in the day the publishers' group had listened to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew renew his criticism of some segments of the nation's news media.

The vice president, without citing specific examples, said some of the nation's most influential newspapers and television networks had abandoned the practice of "telling both sides of the story."

The President in his later talk said it would be an unhappy situation for the United States "if we lived in a country where we did not have that free press."

American government leaders know their every decision will "be held up to the closest scrutiny and the most effective possible criticism," the President added.

This, he said, "is essential to the survival of freedom."

Correspondents Freed By Reds

SAIGON (AP) — Three American correspondents, held captive by Viet Cong troops in Cambodia for more than five weeks were released and returned to Saigon Tuesday apparently unharmed.

"We're safe and healthy, and we're in good shape," said Richard B. Dudman of the St. Louis Post dispatch, released with Elizabeth Pond of the Christian Science Monitor and Michael D. Morrow of Dispatch, Inc.

Dudman added that the trio received rough treatment at first when their interrogators suspected that they were American government personnel. But, he said, they were treated "with kindness and consideration" once their credentials as correspondents had been established.

Rev. Carl Wetherell, Pastor of the United Methodist Church, delivered the sermon "They Know His Voice" to an interested congregation last Sunday. Door receptionists for next Sunday will be Mrs. Helen Browning and John, with Mrs. Betty Phillips and Robin Melvin in charge of the nursery.

Plans are going forward to the purchase of land for a parking lot. Contributions are being accepted and any amount will be welcome.

The minister and his wife left Sunday for the meeting of West Ohio Conference at Lakeside. They will return Friday evening. In case of emergency, they can be located there.

Glen Bellamy entered Mt. Carmel Hospital Tuesday for back treatments.

Family dinners, reunions, and just friendly visits were the order of the day the past weekend. Every body had company! Many old-timers returned for a day or two to take part in the carnival spirit and entertainment. Visitors from as far away as Bristol, Tenn. and Corpus Christi, Texas were here. Many, many others.

The Mary-Martha Class met at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Beavers on Tuesday evening. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Eva Kellar.

The Second Annual Go-Kart Races, with weather hindrances, was a complete success. With a good attendance on Saturday, visitors were well entertained by speed, thrills, and spills. On Sunday, visitors started arriving before 10 a.m. and at starting time, the village was packed solidly.

Residents opened their lawns to the spectators, and back yards were used for parking. After several preliminary runs, the actual racing began but was later detained by rain for about 45 minutes. The program resumed, and several events were "run" and finally the "downpour" and the remainder of the big races were cancelled. About 125 cars participated, others not getting a chance to appear. Seven states were represented in the entries.

The several lunch and soft-drink stands, operated by the Ladies Auxiliary sold completely out of food, and the Men's Club diner, serving chicken and tenderloin dinners were kept busy until late evening.

Sixty-five trophies were awarded to winners of the several classes, and we are now assured of this being an annual

Stop Firm From Using River Dump

CINCINNATI (AP) — The management of the U. S. Plywood - Champion Papers Inc., were looking elsewhere for a spot to dump 60-70 tons of daily refuse Tuesday after they were stopped Monday from dumping in Hamilton County.

Judge William S. Mathews, Hamilton County Common Pleas Court, granted an injunction in a suit brought by the State of Ohio against Rumpke, Inc., a dump operation in Colerain Township.

The state charged Rumpke with violation of orders of the state Water Pollution Control Board. The board had ordered Rumpke to stop polluting Bank Creek, a tributary of the Great Miami River.

"They (U. S. Plywood-Champion Papers) are apparently a major contributor to the problem and express no interest in helping solve it," Judge Mathews said. "They are from Butler County. I see no reason why Hamilton County should be handling or taking their problems."

The state said the waste is a residue of chemicals and fibers and is of the consistency of toothpaste.

Rumpke is Hamilton County's major garbage collector serving 150,000 households in suburban areas. At least seven industrial firms also have contracts with the Rumpke firm.

event. Racing officials are enthused, announcing that our race-course is the best they have ever seen.

Race officials and newspaper writers, who are experienced in judging attendance, estimated the Sunday crowd at over 8,000, which together with Saturday's attendance, brings us over our anticipated 10,000 visitors for the two days.

Fire Dept. officials and all other connected organizations, are well pleased, and I am sure that everyone had a wonderful time. Watch this project grow! One former local boy, now of Grove City, Ron Wilkins is deserving of a "pat on the back," for his untiring efforts in this promotion, and all the workers deserve high praise.

Now, for the Homecoming —

July 30-31 and Aug. 1st. Details will be announced later.

According to the latest doctor's report on Sunday, it will be several days before I will be able to get out and around to scout for news and that presents a problem. I would like to keep our area represented for local news readers, because several of them visited with me in the past few days, and they really appreciate it. If any one has any news items, contact me by noon on Monday, or mail it to the Herald, marked Commercial Point, and I'm sure it will be published. Please help me keep it going for the time being.

The Fire Department expects to start building for the new Fire House before Aug. 1st.

Try To Save Delta Queen

CINCINNATI (AP) — The president of Greene Line Steamers Inc. traveled to Washington Tuesday in hopes of clearing the way for action on bills that could determine the fate of the Delta Queen.

William Muster, who heads the company which operates the overnight passenger riverboat, said Monday that he planned to meet with Coast Guard officials.

He said that the Coast Guard has not yet submitted a report on the Delta Queen to the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee of the U. S. House of Representatives. Sixteen bills have been introduced in the House to exempt the Delta Queen from restrictions of the Safety-at-Sea Law but the committee head will not call them for a hearing until the report is received, Muster continued.

Congress has given the stern-wheeler until Nov. 2 to operate. The law stipulates that overnight passenger vessels carrying

House Eyes Import Quotas Despite Nixon Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation on textile and other imports are moving toward House passage—regardless of the position the Nixon administration is now formulating—top congressional sources say.

So far, the administration is on record against such legislation at least so long as there is hope of voluntary agreements with Japan and other major exporters. The White House said Monday such negotiations still are under way.

But there was rising speculation on Capitol Hill that President Nixon, who is working on a general economic speech for delivery Wednesday, may say he does not object to the limited quota bill backed by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., and some 200 other members.

Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans, who outlined the administration's views last month before Mills' Ways and Means Committee, was to return to the stand Thursday with a report on negotiations and their effect on administration policy. His appearance, however, has been postponed until Monday, reportedly at his request.

The Mills bill would set quotas on imported textiles, footwear and apparel. They could be increased in future years, but only in proportion to increases in U.S. consumption of the products involved.

However, a country could avoid the mandatory quotas by negotiating a voluntary limitation of exports into the United States of goods found to be causing damage to U.S. industries.

A source in excellent position to observe said that not only is the committee certain to approve the bill—a majority of its members are cosponsors—but that it will be broadened.

Aid will be provided other import-threatened industries, he said, although this probably will not take the form of quotas. Among the devices that might be used, the source said, are countervailing duties on goods whose export is assisted by rebates of the producing country's taxes.

Backers of the bill, whose co-

Muskie To Face GOP 'Farmer'

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Republican Neil S. Bishop, who says he emerged from political retirement at the suggestion of his high school civics pupils, will oppose Democratic Sen. Edmund S. Muskie in the November election.

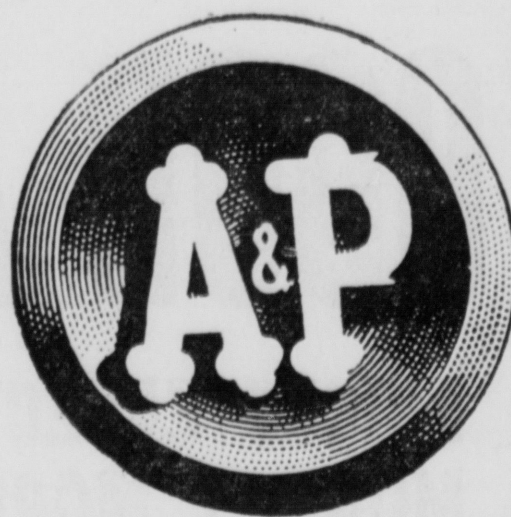

The self-styled "plain dirt farmer" turned teacher outpolled two competitors Monday to capture the GOP Senate nomination. Muskie was unopposed for nomination to a third term.

In other statewide contests, Democratic Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis and Republican Atty. Gen. James S. Erwin scored easy victories in their gubernatorial primaries.

sponsors amount nearly to a majority of the House, say there is no question about its passage, especially if the administration remains at least neutral. And its chances are considered even better in the Senate which, unlike the House, has approved quota legislation in the recent past.

The committee is understood also to be working on toughening provisions for a general trade bill sent to it by the administration and intended to revive limited tariff bargaining authority.

Trial Is Opened In Viet Slayings

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — The court-martial of the first of four U.S. Marines accused of killing 16 Vietnamese civilians opened today with the prosecution claiming the Marines herded the victims from their homes and shot them with small arms and a grenade launcher.

The defendant, Pvt. Michael A. Schwarz, 21, of Weirton, W.Va., sat impassively as the first witnesses took the stand. The prosecution showed the court color photographs of the bodies of five women and 11 children.

The bodies were found near three huts in Son Thang Village, 27 miles south of Da Nang, last Feb. 20, a day after the alleged slaying.

Population Growth Figures Make U.N. Planners Worry

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Unless current trends change the world 80 years hence will have three persons for every one now living.

That is the projection of the U.N. secretariat, presented in a background paper to help a committee of experts suggest new studies on the relationships between population trends and economic development.

The paper says the world is "faced with the high probability that if present trends continue, the inhabitants of the planet may outnumber 11 billion as early as the middle of the 21st century."

The estimated 1970 population is 3.362 billion. The secretariat shows what it means by "present trends" in detailed projections to the end of the 20th century.

These indicate that from now till then the world's crude birth rate will fall a fourth—from 33.2 down to 25.1 live births per 1,000 people—while the crude death rate will fall a third—from 12.8 to 8.1 deaths per 1,000. Life expectancy at birth will rise to 69½ years from 55½.

That will bring the annual rate of world population growth down from 1970's 2 per cent to 1.7 per cent in the year 2000. After that, even though the growth rate may continue to decline, "the annual increments in population will continue to become larger."

The paper says the prospect of 11 billion human beings by 2050 may prompt reconsideration of the idea of stabilizing the world's population by somehow achieving a zero growth rate. But for the moment, it remarks, that idea is highly hypothetical. In most developing countries, it says, high population growth "tends to increase the numbers of those segments of the population—illiterate, unskilled, agricultural, rural and the like—that were characteristic of pre-modern societies. Thus such growth "is conducive to perpetuating economic backwardness, low productivity and inadequate living conditions."

"However," the paper says, "in view of the modest achievements of these programs, there is a growing appreciation that family planning alone cannot bring fertility to an adequate level, and that economic and social change has to pave the way for fertility control."

Miss Grace Minshall attended the Flag Day Exercises held at Jeffrey Mansion, Bexley, on Sunday, in honor of her cousin, the late C. C. Crabbe.

A new flagpole has also been erected at the Mansion in his honor. Flag-raising services took place at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. A beautiful flag and standard was dedicated to J. Roth Crabbe, son of C. C. Crabbe. It is to remain inside the mansion. The usual parade was omitted due to a sudden downpour of rain. Everyone was treated to ice cream, and each presented with a small silk flag.

Johnny Furniss has entered the U.S. Air Force Reserve and has begun basic training at Lackland AFB at San Antonio, Texas.

Miss Grace Minshall and cousin Mrs. Goldie Horton of Columbus, were entertained to six o'clock supper by Mrs. Horton's sister, Mrs. Faye Crabbe of Columbus.

Trial Is Opened In Viet Slayings

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — The court-martial of the first of four U.S. Marines accused of killing 16 Vietnamese civilians opened today with the prosecution claiming the Marines herded the victims from their homes and shot them with small arms and a grenade launcher.

The defendant, Pvt. Michael A. Schwarz, 21, of Weirton, W.Va., sat impassively as the first witnesses took the stand. The prosecution showed the court color photographs of the bodies of five women and 11 children.

The bodies were found near three huts in Son Thang Village, 27 miles south of Da Nang, last Feb. 20, a day after the alleged slaying.

Population Growth Figures Make U.N. Planners Worry

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Unless current trends change the world 80 years hence will have three persons for every one now living.

That is the projection of the U.N. secretariat, presented in a background paper to help a committee of experts suggest new studies on the relationships between population trends and economic development.

The paper says the world is "faced with the high probability that if present trends continue, the inhabitants of the planet may number 11 billion as early as the middle of the 21st century."

The estimated 1970 population is 3,362 billion.

The secretariat shows what it means by "present trends" in detailed projections to the end of the 20th century.

These indicate that from now till then the world's crude birth rate will fall a fourth—from 33.2 down to 25.1 live births per 1,000 people—while the crude death rate will fall a third—from 12.8 to 8.1 deaths per 1,000. Life expectancy at birth will rise to 66½ years from 55½.

That will bring the annual rate of world population growth down from 1970's 2 per cent to 1.7 per cent in the year 2000. After that, even though the growth rate may continue to decline, "the annual increments in population will continue to become larger."

The paper says the prospect of 11 billion human beings by 2050 may prompt reconsideration of the idea of stabilizing the world's population by somehow achieving a zero growth rate.

But for the moment, it remarks, that idea is highly hypothetical.

In most developing countries, it says, high population growth "tends to increase the numbers of those segments of the population—illiterate, unskilled, agricultural, rural and the like—that were characteristic of pre-modern societies. Thus such growth "is conducive to perpetuating economic backwardness, low productivity and inadequate living conditions."

"However," the paper says, "in view of the modest achievements of these programs, there is a growing appreciation that family planning alone cannot bring fertility to an adequate level, and that economic and social change has to pave the way for fertility control."

Dear Abby: Daughter 'Goes Wrong'

DEAR ABBY: When our daughter graduated from high school, she was described as "a highly intelligent, well-adjusted, clean-cut girl," so we were confident that we could send her away to college.

Well, she has completed her sophomore year and we have just learned that our confidence in her was badly misplaced. During her first year we noticed that her friends appeared to be the "hippie type" ... but she defended them, saying they were "good kids" and they all looked like that.

Last summer she worked at a resort. We visited her frequently and noticed nothing amiss. However, now we know that she sometimes slept with boys who were casual dates. Also, she slipped away one weekend to attend a "rock concert" with three "guys" she hardly knew, and slept in one room with them.

How does a well brought up girl turn into such a tramp? She had love, a happy home, and a religious background. My wife is under a doctor's care now and seems headed for a nervous breakdown.

Perhaps if you publish this letter, some other kids will see it and stop short of wrecking a happy family. We have another daughter, younger, and it sickens me to admit that my wife and I have lost all desire to bring her up. We feel that teaching decency and honor to today's children is useless.

DEFEATED FATHER
DEAR FATHER: In spite of the best parental guidance, and the ultimate in examples of "morality" at home, our young people today are faced with temptations we never knew. (Drugs, freaky friends, the horrifying fear that there will be no "world" soon. Who knows?)

In any case, even though your eldest daughter fell under the influence of her peer group, I urge you not to abandon your responsibility as parents now. And the younger one deserves your best efforts, too. These are times when our children need our love and understanding most.

Chief Justice O'Neill To Fly Back To Ohio

CATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP)—Ohio Supreme Court Chief Justice C. William O'Neill, who has been recovering in Tennessee from a May 22 heart attack, plans to fly home to Columbus, late this week.

The 54-year-old justice completed paperwork Tuesday to be a candidate for chief justice in November. O'Neill was appointed to the post April 3 by Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes, following the death of Chief Justice Kingsley A. Taft.

Dr. Joseph Acker, a cardiologist who has been treating O'Neill, said he saw no medical reason for the judge to drop out of this fall's election race.

Acker said O'Neill is making excellent progress and would have been home by now if he had not lived so far away. O'Neill suffered the heart attack while attending a judicial conference here.

Brazilian Terrorists Free German Diplomat

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—The West German ambassador to Brazil was released unharmed Tuesday night, had a quick snack of orange juice and eggs and told newsmen he would tell them later about his five-day ordeal at the mercy of political kidnappers.

Ambassador Ehrenfried Von Holleben was freed on a Rio de Janeiro street nearly 24 hours after the arrival in Algiers of 40 political prisoners whose freedom was demanded by the kidnappers. The diplomat was given a ride home by a young lawyer who recognized him.

It was the third political kidnapping in Brazil since last September, and the ninth of a diplomat by antigovernment forces in Latin America. All have been released unharmed except Count Karl von Spreti, the West German ambassador to Guatemala, who was murdered last April after the Guatemalan government refused to free prisoners demanded as ransom.

Von Holleben was pulled from his car last Thursday by nine young men and a woman carrying machine guns. They killed one Brazilian security guard and wounded two others before speeding the envoy away. Leaflets strewn on the street identified the kidnappers as members of the Popular Revolutionary Vanguard, an underground leftist group opposing the military regime in Brazil.

"Yes, I'm all right," the 61-year-old diplomat said as he got out of the car in front of his residence. He looked tired and worn, and his tan suit was wrinkled and creased, but he seemed to be in good shape otherwise.

The ambassador appeared on the balcony of the embassy residence and read a brief statement saying he was "very grateful to all who stood by me." He expressed grief over the slaying of the security agent in the kidnapping.

The young man who brought von Holleben home, Sergio da Costa Apolinario, said he was parked in the northcentral section of Rio when the ambassador approached and asked for help. Apolinario said Von Holleben did not talk much during the ride but did say he was all right.

Shortly before Von Holleben was released, his embassy received a telephone threat that he would be killed unless police relaxed their street patrols in Rio. An hour later a government broadcast said no excessive security measures were being taken, and police were only carrying out their regular duties. But shortly after that some of the street barricades that had been thrown up were removed, and some of the uniformed police were taken off the streets.

Alarm had been growing at the delay in the ambassador's release. His abductors had promised he would be freed as soon as Brazilian television and newspapers brought them word that the 40 political prisoners had landed safely in Mexico, Cuba or Algeria.

The kidnappers also had demanded that there be no search for them and no arrests for the kidnaping. Only a few arrests were reported, in contrast to the sweeping roundup of suspects following the abduction of U.S. Ambassador C. Burke Elbrick last September.

Meanwhile, the International Commission of Jurists sent a French lawyer to Algiers to investigate the charges by the freed prisoners that their Brazilian captors had tortured them. The lawyer, Maurice Butin, told a radio interviewer he was "deeply shocked" by scars and other signs of torture on many of the Brazilians. The international commission investigates government repression around the world.

Helpful Trusty Weak-Willed?

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP)—"Is there anything I can do before checking out?" asked jail trusty Freddie D. Barnhill, who had one more day to serve of his three-month sentence for receiving stolen property.

Officer Pat Rodgers hired Barnhill, 23, to wash his $4,000 sports car in the lot behind police headquarters.

A little later Sunday, Rodgers looked out to check Barnhill's progress. He and the car were gone. Barnhill was sought Monday on charges of escape and car theft.

DEAR ABBY: I am not a hippie. I am not a rebellious student. I am a girl, 13 years old. I don't drink or smoke. I don't use pot or LSD and I don't stand on street corners waiting to be picked up.

I am a virgin and no boy puts his hands where they shouldn't be. I have plenty of dates. So what's my problem? In your column you labeled me (and countless others) as having no respect for ourselves. Why? Because we walked with a boyfriend with our hands around each other's waists, or we sat close together in a car. So what's wrong with an expression of affection and love these days? Would you rather we hid our feelings in the back seat of a car? Would that be more "proper"? No one would see us there.

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU
DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Aw, come on! There is nothing wrong with young lovers (and older ones, for that matter) expressing honest affection in public—TO A POINT. But that "point" ends when they put their hands where they shouldn't be, exchange passionate kisses before God and everybody, and give the general impression they are in a bedroom. (Or would like to be!)

CONFIDENTIAL TO "JUST CURIOUS": You are mistaken. A baby CAN be born in the eight month of pregnancy and weigh 9½ pounds. This is common in families where there is a history of diabetes.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Nixon administration proposal to hike the price of atomic fuel has drawn stiff congressional opposition on grounds it could raise electric bills for everyone who owns a light bulb and lead to a private monopoly of nuclear energy.

The complex issue concerns the administration's proposed 10 per cent increase for uranium enrichment services, presently performed exclusively by the Atomic Energy Commission.

"You'll see the price go up on every kilowatt of power in the United States," Chairman Chet Holifield, D-Calif., said Monday at a hearing of the Senate-House Joint Atomic Energy Committee.

and humid with a chance of thundershowers this afternoon and tonight becoming more numerous Thursday. Highs both days in the upper 80s and low 90s, Lows tonight in the mid 60s to low 70s.

"Not only is this inflationary in itself, but ... it sets a horrible example for every other industry," said Sen. Apert Gore, D-Tenn.

The AEC argued the cost hike would justify establishment of a model plant to provide private industry with the know-how to enrich uranium.

The Atomic Energy commissioners, who already have approved the hike, added the price boost could be justified on grounds of increased costs.

Holifield and others charged the model plant concept eventually would lead to the private takeover of the three government-owned plants now performing the task.

Woman's Body Found; Homicide Is Ruled

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Trumbull County Coroner Dr. Joseph Sudimack Jr., has ruled homicide in the death of an unidentified woman whose body was found over the weekend in a shallow grave near Mosquit

The three plants are located at Paducah, Ky., Portsmouth, Ohio and Oak Ridge, Tenn. One of these presumably would be used to instruct industry technicians on the procedure.

"You are only justifying a higher profit image for the transfer of the plants to private ownership," said Holifield. He called the model plant proposal a stalking horse for industry, with the taxpayer paying for the education of the nuclear energy industry.

Additionally, Gore and Holifield said the new price level would encourage coal and oil producers to raise prices. Coal and oil also are used to fire electrical generators.
AEC Commissioner Dr. Theos

Thompson said he did not envision selling the three plants to private industry "now or in the near future."

AEC Commissioner Wilfred Johnson urged establishment of a model plant to begin now because it has been decided that sometime in future "there should be an apparatus for private industry to participate."

Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., said several firms have indicated a consortium might be interested in buying the government installations.

Trotters Set For Thursday's Scioto Downs Stakes Race

Eight of the sport's finest 4-yr-old trotters will meet Thursday night at Scioto Downs in the $11,000 Challenge Stakes event.

Tabbed as the slight early favorite on the morning line is Hiland Hill, the son of B. F. Coaltown, holder of the track trotting record at Scioto Downs, owned by Dr. John Jackman of Columbus. The 4-yr-old will have the services of the sport's all time leading race and money winning driver, Billy Haughton. Last year Hiland Hill became one of the top contenders for the Hambletonian trotting classic after whipping the highly touted Dayan at Scioto in 1:59 2-5. After two successive victories the solid sophomore was stricken with the virus and taken out of training for the rest of the year.

This year, under the guidance of Billy Haughton who has won more than $14 million dollars and more than 3,300 races, Hiland Hill has been tremendous. Although he is winless in ten starts, Hiland Hill has been associating with only the best trotters in the sport. His last three starts resulted in finishes right behind the World Champion Dayan.

SECOND choice goes to the 4-yr-old Star's Pride stallion Armbr Jet, trained and driven by the top Grand Circuit reinsman Joe O'Brien. Owned by the Armstrong Brothers stable of Brampton, Ontario, Canada, Armbr Jet comes to Scioto fresh from a victory in last Saturday night's $85,000 American National stake at Sportsman's Park in Chicago in 2:03 1-5.

Riding a four race win streak from Houston, Texas is Oppy, the bay son of Floris, owned by R. D. Ricketts. Trained and driven by Lou Huber, Oppy has posted four straight victories at Lexington, Kentucky including a victory in the rich Kentucky Trotting Series. His lifetime mark is 2:02.

Sharing fourth position on the early line are a pair of 4-yr-olds; Abe, last year's season champion over a half mile track; and Richey, the son of Caleb, trained and driven by

Bingman, Elks Win Battles In LL Majors

Bingman's blasted the American Legion, 10-4, and the Elks shut out Purina, 5-0, in Little League Major action Tuesday night.

Brent Mancini and Bill Mogan hurled for the druggists. Their mound magic netted 12 strikeouts while giving up only four bases on balls and six hits. Dan Marshall suffered the Legion loss allowing 13 tags.

Warren Yamrick tapped a double for the winning effort while Ty Burns hit a two baser for the Legion "9".

In the Elks-Purina battle, Brad Skinner, Sam Webb and Rick Price all nailed doubles for the grainmen, but the Purina bunch scored nary a run. Randy Cradlebaugh banged a three bagger for the winners.

Gary Wolford pitched the shutout for the Lodge allowing five hits, one walk and two strikeouts. John Wickline and Sam Webb were the losing pitchers. Together they allowed six hits, seven walks, and they struck out five.

Guessing Games To End As 70th U.S. Open Starts

CHASKA, Minn. (AP)—Mystery, and perhaps guesswork, shrouding the Hazeltine National course, subsides Thursday with the start of the first round in the 70th United States Open Golf Championship.

But as golfers completed practice rounds today, a great debate continued:

Is the par 72, 7,151-yard Hazeltine layout really a monster? Touring pro Dave Hill described the course after a practice round: "It looked like a man destroyed a beautiful farm."

A differing view came from 1969 open champion Orville Moody.

"I plan to get around in 67 at least once or twice," said the former Army sergeant who exploded into golf headlines with his title at Houston last year. "It's my type of layout, fairly long and fairly tough."

The scenic course, carved out of rolling Minnesota woodlands, offers a network of 10 long dog

Dick Buxton, Owned by Henry Critchfield and Gordon Walters of Wooster, Ohio, Richey has been racing over Lexington's famed Red Mile with success.

Abe, the bay son of B. F. Coaltown, owned and driven by Jim Edwards of Sunbury, Ohio, has been racing on only the toughest of competition this year. In only three starts this year Abe has been the victim of two season record busters, Mystic Boy in 2:04 1-5 and Lil Rodney in 2:02 1-5. Last Friday night Abe was behind Lynn Lee in 2:01 4-5.

Mystic Boy, owned by Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Johns of Wooster, Ohio, set the early season record for a half mile track with a victory in 2:04 3-5. He whipped Scioto's best two weeks ago in the Invitational trot.

Circus Maximus from Birdsboro, Pennsylvania won the Invitational over Brandywine Raceway's new five eighths mile oval last week in 2:04. Cloud Burst with Ed Dunwoody round out the fine feature field.

Ashville Man Becomes Top Trainer-Owner

Robert Gary Patrick, a 23-year-old former Ashville resident is making quite a name for himself as the youngest trainer at Thistledown Race Track.

Patrick graduated from Teays Valley High School and went to South Plains College in Cleveland, Texas before obtaining his trainers license for the Ohio Racing Commission in 1968.

He is now the owner-trainer of Moncrief who is the winner of eight straight races, a Thistledown and Ohio record.

Training 20 horses while owning 14 of his own keeps the young man busy but has been a worthwhile endeavor.

In addition to Moncrief, Patrick owns Jr. Derby, two wins this year, Patrol Ruler, one victory for the season and Rex Whitney who also has a win to his credit.

Patrick owned or trained horses have come up with 13 victories this year.

At the age of 13, Patrick was an established rodeo performer throughout Ohio, riding the saddle broncos and bulls.

He is married to the former Donna Lemon and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert I. Patrick, Route 2, Ashville.

PPG Rips Blocks, FOP Tops Mac's

PPG ripped Block's, 30-15, in four innings and FOP topped Mac's, 7-2, in Mosquito league action Tuesday evening.

The glassmen connected for ten runs in the first stanza to overpower the shoestore boys. The PPG nine connected for eight in the second and gave up six to the losers, scored three in the third while allowing Block's eight, then rapped for nine in the fourth when time ran out.

Barry Keller was the winning hurler of the slugfest. Keller allowed six hits walked 15 and fanned ten. Brad Allen suffered the loss. He fanned 11, walked 17 but allowed 22 hits.

Jim Wolfe and Randy Jenkins swung the big bats for the winners. They both tagged a single, a double and a triple and scored four runs. Mark Agin also tapped a double for the winning effort. Pete Harrison hit a double for the Block's "9".

In the FOP-Mac's battle, Pat Poorman racked up three hits in four trips to the plate including a two run homer. Kevin Woltz and Paul Brown had doubles for the winning squad. Chris Mays and John Harr hit two-sackers for the Mac's effort.

Woltz was the winning pitcher in the fray. The young hurler fanned 13 batters, allowed six hits and gave up three bases on balls. Harr and Mays teamed up on the hill for Mac's. Together they whiffed nine, walked nine and gave up ten hits.

Herb Miller Drives Scioto Downs Victor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Herb Miller drove C E's Sammy to victory Tuesday night in the $1,500 conditioned pace feature at Scioto Downs. It was Miller's second victory of the night.

Sammy paid $6, $4.20 and $3.20 H. A. Baby placed for $8 and $5. Timmy Mortgage paid $5.20 to show. Time of the mile was 2:04 3-5.

The 3-4 double combination of O'Hennessey and Fairbank's Ruby returned $36.60. A 5-8 quinella paid $224.70. A crowd of 5,391 wagered $221,888.

Lou Graham, who won the Minnesota Classic here three years ago," said Waryan.

Graham shot a two-under par 72-hole total of 286 to win the Classic in a field which did not include the Palmers, Players or Nicklaus.

The big name pros are predicting scores of 280 to 290 will win the prestigious Open championship worth $30,000 in prize money and perhaps $1 million in endorsements.

"The most fun in any tournament is picking the final score," said Waryan. "I'd have to say 285 will win it. If the wind swirls up and the course doesn't dry out, it might go to 288 or higher."

A series of thunderstorms the past week left the course soggy and the weather muggy. But only a slight chance of rain is expected for the first round.

Dodgers, Giants Win Top NL Contests

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

Billy Grabarkewitz and Dick Dietz aren't making much headway with National League All-Star voters, but they've left a lasting impression on two more National League pitchers.

Grabarkewitz slammed a fourth inning homer off Pittsburgh's Bob Veale to give the Los Angeles Dodgers a 1-0 victory over the Pirates and Dietz' three-run blast off Chicago's Bill Hands carried the San Francisco Giants past the Cubs 3-2 Tuesday night.

The Dodgers' clutch-hitting third baseman and the Giants' slugging catcher are both among the league's Top Ten batters, but their names don't appear on the All-Star ballots, which were made up before the start of the season and distributed recently to fans across the country.

And, while Atlanta's Rico Carty, another torrid hitter who was left off the ballot, has received enough write-in votes to place third in the early outfield balloting, neither Grabarkewitz nor Dietz was among the top six at his position when the first returns were made public Monday.

But the pitchers haven't been able to ignore Grabarkewitz, a .339 batter who has won four games with homers, and Dietz has left his mark on them, too, with a .326 average, 13 homers and 52 runs batted in.

Elsewhere in the NL, the New York Mets topped Cincinnati 8-1; San Diego blanked St. Louis 4-0; Philadelphia nipped Houston 2-1 in 13 innings and Atlanta downed Montreal 7-5.

Grabarkewitz' sixth homer of the year, a two-out shot in the fourth inning, decided a pitching duel between Veale and winner Don Sutton, who stopped the

Simpson Joins Rockets And Haywood

DENVER (AP)—Ralph Simpson, who once overshadowed pro basketball superstar Spencer Haywood, has abandoned Michigan State to join his old high school teammate on the Denver Rockets for a near $1 million contract.

Simpson, who averaged 29 points a game as a sophomore at Michigan State last year, was signed—like Haywood—as a "hardship" case by the Rockets of the American Basketball Association.

Haywood left the University of Detroit in August 1969 after his sophomore year, joined the Rockets and was named the league's rookie of the year and most valuable player during his first season.

"Haywood and Simpson are like brothers," said Rockets General Manager Donald W. Ringsby. "And I understand they play fantastically well together."

But Haywood, the ABA's leading scorer and rebounder last year, once played in Simpson's shadow. When Haywood was a senior and Simpson a junior at Pershing High School in Detroit, the 6-5 guard overshadowed Haywood in the final game, scoring 43 points to lead Pershing to the 1967 Michigan state championship.

"We have signed Simpson as a hardship case," said Ringsby. "His father has had a heart attack and is out of work. There are eight brothers and sisters all under 16. Ralph's mother is on Aid to Dependent Children. You can see the family is in desperate condition."

Foster And Quarry To Meet Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—Fight fans will get a look at what could be in heavyweight champion Joe Frazier's future when Mac Foster meets Jerry Quarry in a scheduled 10-rounder to-night at Madison Square Garden.

They also will get a glimpse into the nostalgic past as part of a special ceremony honoring Jack Dempsey, who will be 75 next Wednesday.

Quarry, the young veteran from Bellflower, Calif., should be the toughest test yet for the massive Foster, who is gunning for a shot at Frazier.

Dairymen Take 2nd Bankers, Lead In LL

Blue Ribbon Dairy collected their second win of the season in as many starts Tuesday night outscoring the Second National squad, 14-7.

Jeff Bohenko blasted a homer and Rick Allen tagged a double for the winners.

Butch McFarland was the winning hurler. He allowed the Second bankers five hits.

Eddie Belmonte, who wore a $600 yellow velvet suit to the Preakness, used to have a Chinese tailor in Los Angeles.

Hagley is the first stakes winner bred by Mr. and Mrs. James P. Mills' Hickory Tree Farm near Middleburg, Va.

Pirates on four hits and struck out nine.

Dietz connected in the second inning after a walk and an error by rookie shortstop Roger Metzger, giving Gaylord Perry a 3-0 lead, and the Giants' right-hander checked the Cubs on three hits, including a two-run homer by Ron Santo in the seventh, to gain his 10th victory.

Both were philosophical about their early non-support in the voting for the July 14 All-Star classic at Cincinnati.

"Heck, I've been struggling for the last ten days, anyway, so I couldn't expect any more," Grabarkewitz said of his meager total of 3,151 write-in votes among some 240,000 cast in the first week of balloting. "Besides, Perez is the best third baseman in the league, anyway... so why bother?"

The Reds' Tony Perez, batting .368 and leading the circuit in home runs, with 23, and RBI, with 66, has been the top vote-getter at his position.

No other third baseman tops Grabarkewitz' average, but he trailed five others in the voting, including St. Louis' Mike Shannon, who missed the first two months of the season with a kidney ailment.

"I don't see how they could have put me on the All-Star ballot," said Dietz. "It was too early. But if I continue to hit well up to the All-Star break, I feel I'd have to be chosen one way or another. I'd like to go... it's been my boyhood dream."

Johnny Bench of the Reds, who has walked 20 homers and driven in 57 runs, is the runaway leader among the catchers. But five other receivers topped Dietz' 3,292 votes, including Philadelphia's Tim Lincecum and Chicago's Randy Hundley who have been out for long periods with injuries, and single he stroked in the second inning which was in danger of being washed right out of the records.

"I changed my shirt and just sat right here and relaxed," said McAndrew. "I wish I had taken a nap."

McAndrew had been strated for four hits—three of them doubles—in the first two innings before the rain started falling. "I had good stuff," he insisted. "They were hitting good pitches. I wasn't worried about that. But I had a single in the second inning and I sat here saying to myself, 'Gosh, I'm gonna lose a hit. I'm a lousy hitter and I know it. I need all the help I can get.'"

The clouds rolled away saving McAndrew's single and the rest of the Mets gave him plenty of help, collecting 13 hits against four Cincinnati pitchers.

Tommy Agee started the offense with a leadoff homer in the first, balancing a Red's run produced on doubles by Pete Rose and Johnny Bench. Then Bud Harrelson doubled and came around on an infield out

The Orioles gave up promising young infielder Bobby Floyd to Kansas City to get the 35-year-old reliever, who has a 1-2 record with two saves and a 3.25 earned run average this season.

Baltimore must still remember his 6-0 record and his 6 2-3 inning, 11 strike out performance in the World Series with them in 1966 before the Royals picked him in the 1968 expansion draft.

The Orioles, their Eastern Division lead cut to two games, also traded reserve outfielder Dave May to Milwaukee for minor league pitchers Buzz Stephens and Dick Baney. To make room for May, the Brewers sent recently acquired Hank Allen to their Rochester farm club.

Cincinnati, the leader in the National League's Western Division, bolstered itself by acquiring 31-year-old utility outfielder Ty Cline from Montreal for minor league outfielder Clyde Mashore, 25.

The Reds then sent outfielder Jay Ward to the minors.

The biggest trade earlier Monday sent veteran pitchers Barry Moore and Bob Miller from Cleveland to the Chicago White Sox for outfielder Buddy Bradford and pitcher Tommie Sisk, who was sent to the Indians' Wichita farm club.

Milwaukee also acquired free agent pitcher Bob Humphreys, brought outfielder-first baseman Bob Burda back from the minors and sold reliever Bob Locker to Oakland.

The White Sox sent veteran reliever Jerry Arriaga to the mi-

Hard-Working Mets Stop Rampaging Cincy Reds, 8-1

NEW YORK (AP)—The clock in center field was a stroke or two away from midnight as weary Jim McAndrew went back to work in the ninth inning against the Cincinnati Reds.

"When you've walked 100 miles," said McAndrews, "the next step seems easy."

McAndrews hadn't walked 100 miles Tuesday night. It just felt that way. He labored nine long innings, sweated out two rain delays and pitched the New York Mets to an 8-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Easy it wasn't.

"I was emotionally and physically spent at the end," said McAndrew. If he was tired how about the Shea Stadium ground crew, which lugged the heavy tarps on and off the field at the start of the third when the game was delayed 38 minutes and again at the start of the fourth when play was halted 29 minutes.

While raindrops kept falling on everyone's head, McAndrew rested in front of his locker meditating, not on the heavy-hitting Reds but rather on the

Trotters Set For Thursday's Scioto Downs Stakes Race

Eight of the sport's finest 4-yr-old trotters will meet Thursday night at Scioto Downs in the $11,000 Challenge Stakes event.

Tabbed as the slight early favorite on the morning line is Hiland Hill, the son of B. F. Coaltown, holder of the track trotting record at Scioto Downs, owned by Dr. John Jackman of Columbus. The 4-yr-old will have the services of the sport's all time leading race and money winning driver, Billy Haughton.

Last year Hiland Hill became one of the top contenders for the Hambletonian trotting classic after whipping the highly touted Dayan at Scioto in 1:59.2-5. After two successive victories the solid sophomore was stricken with the virus and taken out of training for the rest of the year.

This year, under the guidance of Billy Haughton who has won more than $14 million dollars and more than 3,300 races, Hiland Hill has been tremendous. Although he is winless in ten starts, Hiland Hill has been associating with only the best trotters in the sport. His last three starts resulted in finishes right behind the World Champion Dayan.

SECOND choice goes to the 4-yr-old Star's Pride stallion Armbrø Jet, trained and driven by the top Grand Circuit reinsman Joe O'Brien. Owned by the Armstrong Brothers stable of Brampton, Ontario, Canada, Armbrø Jet comes to Scioto fresh from a victory in last Saturday night's $85,000 American National stake at Sportsman's Park in Chicago in 2:03.1-5.

Riding a four race win streak from Houston, Texas is Oppy, the Bay son of Floris, owned by R. D. Ricketts. Trained and driven by Lou Huber, Oppy has posted four straight victories at Lexington, Kentucky including a victory in the rich Kentucky Trotting Series. His lifetime mark is 2:02.

Sharing fourth position on the early line are a pair of 4-yr-olds: Abe, last year's season champion over a half mile track; and Richey, the son of Caleb, trained and driven by

Bingman, Elks Win Battles In LL Majors

Bingman's blasted the American Legion, 10-4, and the Elks shut out Purina, 5-0, in Little League Major action Tuesday night.

Brent Mancini and Bill Mogan hurled for the druggists. Their mound magic netted 12 strikeouts while giving up only four bases on balls and six hits. Dan Marshall suffered the Legion loss allowing 13 tags.

Warren Yarnick tapped a double for the winning effort while Ty Burns hit a two baser for the Legion "9".

In the Elks-Purina battle, Brad Skinner, Sam Webb and Rick Price all nailed doubles for the grainmen, but the Purina bunch scored nary a run. Randy Cradlebaugh banged a three bagger for the winners.

Gary Wolford pitched the shutout for the Lodge allowing five hits, one walk and two strikeouts. John Wickline and Sam Webb were the losing pitchers. Together they allowed six hits, seven walks, and they struck out five.

Guessing Games To End As 70th U.S. Open Starts

CHASKA, Minn. (AP)—Mystery, and perhaps guesswork, shrouding the Hazeltine National course, subsides Thursday with the start of the first round in the 70th United States Open Golf Championship.

But as golfers completed practice rounds today, a great debate continued:

A differing view came from 1969 open champion Orville Moody.

"I plan to get around in 67 at least once or twice," said the former Army sergeant who exploded into golf headlines with his title at Houston last year. "It's my type of layout, fairly long and fairly tough."

The scenic course, carved out of rolling Minnesota woodlands, offers a network of 10 long dog

Dick Buxton. Owned by Henry Critchfield and Gordon Walters of Wooster, Ohio, Richey has been racing over Lexington's famed Red Mile with success.

Abe, the bay son of B. F. Coaltown, owned and driven by Jim Edwards of Sunbury, Ohio, has been racing on only the toughest of competition this year. In only three starts this year Abe has been the victim of two season record busters, Mystic Boy in 2:04.1-5 and Lil Rodney in 2:02.1-5. Last Friday night Abe was behind Lynn Lee in 2:01.4-5.

Mystic Boy, owned by Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Johns of Wooster, Ohio, set the early season record for a half mile track with a victory in 2:04.3-5. He whipped Scioto's best two weeks ago in the Invitational trot.

Circus Maximus from Birdsboro, Pennsylvania won the Invitational over Brandywine Raceway's new five eights mile oval last week in 2:04. Cloud Burst with Ed Dunwoody round out the fine feature field.

Ashville Man Becomes Top Trainer-Owner

Robert Gary Patrick, a 23-year-old former Ashville resident is making quite a name for himself as the youngest trainer at Thistledown Race Track.

Patrick graduated from Teays Valley High School and went to South Plains College in Cleveland, Texas before obtaining his trainers license for the Ohio Racing Commission in 1968.

He is now the owner-trainer of Moncrief who is the winner of eight straight races, a Thistledown and Ohio record.

Training 20 horses while owning 14 of his own keeps the young man busy but has been a worthwhile endeavor.

In addition to Moncrief, Patrick owns Jr. Derby, two wins this year, Patrol Ruler, one victory for the season and Rex Whitney who also has a win to his credit.

Patrick owned or trained horses have come up with 13 victories this year.

At the age of 13, Patrick was an established rodeo performer throughout Ohio, riding the saddle broncos and bulls.

He is married to the former Donna Lemon and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert I. Patrick, Route 2, Ashville.

PPG Rips Blocks, FOP Tops Mac's

PPG ripped Block's, 30-15, in four innings and FOP topped Mac's, 7-2, in Mosquito league action Tuesday evening.

The glassmen connected for ten runs in the first stanza to overpower the shoestore boys. The PPG nine connected for eight in the second and gave up six to the losers, scored three in the third while allowing Block's eight, then rapped for nine in the fourth when time ran out.

Barry Keller was the winning hurler of the slugfest. Keller allowed six hits walked 15 and fanned ten. Brad Allen suffered the loss. He fanned 11, walked 17 but allowed 22 hits.

Jim Wolfe and Randy Jenkins swung the big bats for the winners. They both tagged a single, a double and a triple and scored four runs. Mark Agin also tapped a double for the winning effort. Pete Harrison hit a double for the Block's "9".

In the FOP-Mac's battle, Pat Poorman racked up three hits in four trips to the plate including a two run homer. Kevin Woltz and Paul Brown had doubles for the winning squad. Chris Mays and John Harr hit two-sackers for the Mac's effort.

Woltz was the winning pitcher in the fray. The young hurler fanned 13 batters, allowed six hits and gave up three bases on balls. Harr and Mays teamed up on the hill for Mac's. Together they whiffed nine, walked nine and gave up ten hits.

Herb Miller Drives Scioto Downs Victor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Herb Miller drove C E's Sammy to victory Tuesday night in the $1,500 conditioned pace feature at Scioto Downs. It was Miller's second victory of the night.

Sammy paid $6, $4.20 and $3.20. H. A. Baby placed for $8 and $5. Timmy Mortgage paid $5.20 to show. Time of the mile was 2:04.3-5.

The 3-4 daily double combination of O'Hennessey and Fairbank's Ruby returned $36.60. A 5-8 quinella paid $224.70. A crowd of 5,391 wagered $221,888.

Lou Graham, who won the Minnesota Classic here three years ago, said Waryan.

Graham shot a two-under par 72-hole total of 286 to win the Classic in a field which did not include the Palmers, Players or Nicklaus.

The big name pros are predicting scores of 280 to 290 will win the prestigious Open championship worth $30,000 in prize money and perhaps $1 million in endorsements.

"The most fun in any tournament is picking the final score," said Waryan. "I'd have to say 285 will win it. If the wind swirls up and the course doesn't dry out, it might go to 288 or higher."

A series of thunderstorms the past week left the course soggy and the weather muggy. But only a slight chance of rain is expected for the first round.

Blue Ribbon Dairy collected their second win of the season in as many starts Tuesday night outscoring the Second National squad, 14-7.

Jeff Bohenko blasted a homer and Rick Allen tagged a double for the winners.

Dodgers, Giants Win Top NL Contests

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer Billy Grabarkewitz and Dick Dietz aren't making much headway with National League All-Star voters, but they've left a lasting impression on two more National League pitchers.

Grabarkewitz slammed a fourth inning homer off Pittsburgh's Bob Veale to give the Los Angeles Dodgers a 1-0 victory over the Pirates and Dietz' three-run blast off Chicago's Bill Hands carried the San Francisco Giants past the Cubs 3-2 Tuesday night.

The Dodgers' clutch-hitting third baseman and the Giants' slugging catcher are both among the league's Top Ten batters, but their names don't appear on the All-Star ballots, which were made up before the start of the season and distributed recently to fans across the country.

And, while Atlanta's Rico Carty, another torrid hitter who was left off the ballot, has received enough write-in votes to place third in the early outfield balloting, neither Grabarkewitz nor Dietz was among the top six at his position when the first returns were made public Monday.

But the pitchers haven't been able to ignore Grabarkewitz, a .339 batter who has won four games with homers, and Dietz has left his mark on them, too, with a .326 average, 13 homers and 52 runs batted in.

Elsewhere in the NL, the New York Mets topped Cincinnati 8-1; San Diego blanked St. Louis 4-0; Philadelphia nipped Houston 2-1 in 13 innings and Atlanta downed Montreal 7-5.

Grabarkewitz' sixth homer of the year, a two-out shot in the fourth inning, decided a pitching duel between Veale and winner Don Sutton, who stopped the

Simpson Joins Rockets And Haywood

DENVER (AP) — Ralph Simpson, who once overshadowed pro basketball superstar Spencer Haywood, has abandoned Michigan State to join his old high school teammate on the Denver Rockets for a near $1 million contract.

Simpson, who averaged 29 points a game as a sophomore at Michigan State last year, was signed — like Haywood — as a "hardship" case by the Rockets of the American Basketball Association.

Haywood left the University of Detroit in August 1969 after his sophomore year, joined the Rockets and was named the league's rookie of the year and most valuable player during his first season.

"Haywood and Simpson are like brothers," said Rockets General Manager Donald W. Ringsby. "And I understand they play fantastically well together."

But Haywood, the ABA's leading scorer and rebounder last year, once played in Simpson's shadow. When Haywood was a senior and Simpson a junior at Pershing High School in Detroit, the 6-5 guard overshadowed Haywood in the final game, scoring 43 points to lead Pershing to the 1967 Michigan state championship.

"We have signed Simpson as a hardship case," said Ringsby. "His father has had a heart attack and is out of work. There are eight brothers and sisters all under 16. Ralph's mother is on Aid to Dependent Children. You can see the family is in desperate condition."

Both were philosophical about their early non-support in the voting for the July 14 All-Star classic at Cincinnati.

"Heck, I've been struggling for the last ten days, anyway, so I couldn't expect any more," Grabarkewitz said of his meager total of 3,151 write-in votes among some 240,000 cast in the first week of balloting. "Besides, Perez is the best third baseman in the league, anyway ... so why bother?"

single he stroked in the second inning which was in danger of being washed right out of the records.

"I changed my shirt and just sat right here and relaxed," said McAndrew. "I wish I had taken a nap."

McAndrew had been strafed for four hits — three of them doubles — in the first two innings before the rain started falling.

"I had good stuff," he insisted. "They were hitting good pitches. I wasn't worried about that. But I had a single in the second inning and I sat here saying to myself, 'Gosh, I'm gonna lose a hit. I'm a lousy hitter and I know it. I need all the help I can get.'"

The clouds rolled away saving McAndrew's single and the rest of the Mets gave him plenty of help, collecting 13 hits against four Cincinnati pitchers.

Tommie Agee started the offense with a leadoff homer in the first, balancing a R-od's run produced on doubles by Pete Rose and Johnny Bench. Then Bud Harrelson doubled and came around on an infield out

While raindrops kept falling on everyone's head, McAndrew rested in front of his locker meditating, not on the heavy-hitting Reds but rather on the

Drabowsky Goes To Orioles In Final Baseball Trading

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Moe Drabowsky, a big name in the 1966 World Series with Baltimore, was the biggest name involved on the final day of trading, and the Orioles only hope history will repeat itself.

The Orioles gave up promising young infielder Bobby Floyd to Kansas City to get the 35-year-old reliever, who has a 1-2 record with two saves and a 3.25 earned run average this season.

Baltimore must still remember his 6-0 record and his 6.2-3 inning, 11 strike out performance in the World Series with them in 1966 before the Royals picked him in the 1968 expansion draft.

The Orioles, their Eastern Division lead cut to two games, also traded reserve outfielder Dave May to Milwaukee for minor league pitchers Buzz Stephenson and Dick Baney. To make room for May, the Brewers sent recently acquired Hank Allen to their Rochester farm club.

Cincinnati, the leader in the National League's Western Division, bolstered itself by acquiring 31-year-old utility outfielder Ty Cline from Montreal for minor league outfielder Clyde Mashore, 25.

The Reds then sent outfielder Jay Ward to the minors.

The biggest trade earlier Monday sent veteran pitchers Barry Moore and Bob Miller from Cleveland to the Chicago White Sox for outfielder Buddy Bradford and pitcher Tommie Sisk, who was sent to the Indians' Wichita farm club.

Milwaukee also acquired free agent pitcher Bob Humphreys, brought outfielder-first baseman Bob Burda back from the minors and sold reliever Bob Lockert to Oakland.

The White Sox sent veteran reliever Jerry Arriaga to the mi-

Yanks Trim White Sox; Win 6-2

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Roy White and Willie Horton, two of the American League's premier left fielders, are red-hot... and playing it cool.

They refuse to get excited as their flaming bats continue to make a race of what once looked like a Baltimore runaway in the AL East.

White rapped a single, two-run double and two-run homer as the New York Yankees trimmed the Chicago White Sox 6-2 Tuesday night, running their latest winning streak to six games and pulling within two games of the Orioles, who were rained out of their scheduled contest with Milwaukee.

"I don't get excited," said White, who has 11 hits in his last 14 at-bats and has raised his batting average to .357, second to Minnesota's Rod Carew at .367. "I know how easy it is to go bad. I'm just taking things in stride and I'm going to be humble."

Horton collected two singles and drove in a run as the Detroit Tigers downed Oakland 5-1 behind Mike Kilkenny's four-hit, 11-strikeout pitching. Horton's RBI gave him 30 in his last 20 games and boosted his league-leading total to 55.

"I don't feel anything," said Horton, after the Tigers climbed to within 7 1/2 games of the top. "We're winning and that's the important thing."

Elsewhere, Minnesota whipped Washington 7-3, Cleveland trounced skidding California 9-2 and Boston held off Kansas City 7-5.

For those who think ballplayers are overcome by pennant fever, White says he felt more pressure when he was sent to Spokane of the Pacific Coast League in 1967 after spending the entire 1966 season with the Yankees.

White hit .343 in 84 games at Spokane and made it back to the majors for good midway through the season. He's improved steadily ever since, hitting 17 home runs in 1968 and raising his average to .290 last year.

With the Yanks trailing 2-1 in the sixth inning against Tommy John Tuesday night, Horace Clarke doubled, went to third on Bobby Murcer's single and White doubled them both home, eventually scoring himself on a wild pitch. He homered in the eighth off Danny Murphy, his 10th of the season.

Mel Stottlemyre, though touched for 11 hits, upped his record to 7-3 after an 0-3 start.

Mike Kilkenny and Jim Northrup shared the spotlight for Detroit with Horton. Kilkenny, starting for the first time in nearly a month, handled the A's without any trouble until Joe Rudi doubled a run home in the eighth, and Northrup cracked his ninth homer and drove in another run with a single.

Horton says he hasn't even been following his RBI streak.

Leo Cardenas cracked four hits, pitcher Jim Perry three, George Mitterwald and Tony Oliva belted two-run homers and Cesar Tovar hit a two-run Washington and took a commanding 5 1/2-game lead over the Angels in the AL West. Aurelio Rodriguez homered for the Senators.

Rich Hand scattered eight hits for his first complete game and Ray Fosse and Roy Foster hit two-run homers in Cleveland's route of California. The Angels lost for the sixth time in seven games.

The Indians jumped on Andy Messersmith for a run in the second inning and three in the third. Jim Spencer homered for the Angels.

Mike Andrews' grand slam homer snapped a 2-2 tie in the ninth and lifted the Red Sox past the Royals. Reggie Smith singled home another run in the inning as Boston took a 7-2 lead but the Royals battled back with three runs in their half before Smith caught Lou Piniella's drive against the left-center field fence with two runners aboard for the final out. Rico Petrocelli also homered for the winners.

and construction account.

The city's permit for operation of the sewage treatment plant was received. The permit is renewed until Sept. 15.

Chuck Taylor, director of public utilities, told Council that a formal application for an extension of the permit would have to be made. He said it is impossible for the city to meet requirements the state set down in the deadline.

A letter from the state department of health indicating the proposed secondary sewerage treatment plant would be operating at full capacity by the time it is completed was read. The letter indicated the plans for the plant might not be acceptable to the state.

A communication from the department of liquor control was read. The communication informed council that James R. Connelly had applied for transfer of a carryout liquor license from Isaac's Market to Big Jim's Market. The carryout market is located on Clinton Street at the end of Mill Street.

COUNCIL BRIEFS

Council Clerk Robert Shadley announced the public hearing on the proposed zoning ordinance will be held 8 p.m. June 23 in City Hall.

Council discussed the repair of streets in Ted Lewis Park last night. Barnhill felt the park streets should be dedicated so gas tax and auto license tax monies could be used to repair the streets. Mayor Gerhardt indicated he would be opposed to dedicating the streets since the park board would then lose its authority to close the streets through the park when the need arose.

Crawford reported that over 500 homes were checked and it was discovered that 199 had downspouts connected to the sanitary sewer. The owners have been ordered to disconnect the downspouts. Crawford noted that many of the residents who are dumping storm water into the sanitary sewer are the same ones who complain of the sanitary sewer backing up into their basements.

Safety director Robert Adkins announced that John McFarland has resigned from the fire department effective June 22. Adkins said a civil service test will be held for the position of lieutenant in the fire department for firemen and policemen.

Covall, of Chardon, was accused of knowingly paying the money in 1964 on an empty account while manager of the savings and loan's Painesville branch.

Negro Engineer Wins Race For Mayor Over Addonizio

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Kenneth A. Gibson, a 38-year-old civil engineer, has been elected as the first Negro mayor of a major Northeastern city, defeating an incumbent accused of corruption in office.

A runoff election Tuesday gave Gibson victory by 54,892 votes to 43,339 for Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio, 56, who held the office for eight years and ran for another term while standing trial on federal charges.

After Gibson was declared winner, hundreds of Negroes paraded the main street of this racially divided city, New Jersey's largest, some shouting "Power to the people!" and waving clenched fists in a Black Power salute.

Gibson, pledging to work for confrontations, declared: "We must begin to reconcile this community at this moment."

Newark, with a population over 400,000, has a majority of black residents, but Negroes trail whites 3 to 2 in voting registrations.

The key to Gibson's victory appeared to be white votes from areas where former Fire Director John Caufield, who endorsed Gibson, ran strongly in the first election May 12.

Gibson, who takes office July

1, will face a City Council dominated by whites and Addonizio supporters, although he carried three Negro councilmen into office with him.

Two Gibson men ousted veteran Negro Councilmen Irvine Turner and Calvin West, who were aligned with Addonizio and who were indicted with him on federal extortion and conspiracy charges. A third indicted councilman, Frank Addonizio, a distant cousin of the mayor, also lost.

Addonizio, a member of Fordham University's famed "Seven Blocks of Granite" football team and a war hero, served seven terms in Congress before returning to Newark to become mayor.

Addonizio and 14 others — mostly city officials, but including alleged Mafia leader Anthony "Tony Boy" Boiaro — were indicted last year on extortion charges, stemming from an alleged $253,000 in kickbacks on city contracts.

In the six-candidate first election, Gibson outpolled Addonizio 37,895 votes to 18,212 but failed to achieve a majority.

Del Corso May Remain On Job

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Adj. Gen. S. T. Del Corso says he may remain on the job during the next administration if the new governor wants him.

Del Corso, Ohio's national guard commander, announced recently he would offer his resignation in January because it is customary.

He said Tuesday that if offered the position by the new governor he would consider the situation at the time and "if I feel I should remain on, then I would accept."

Washington C. H. Fluoridation Nixed

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, Ohio (AP) — Washington Court House, which has a privately-owned water system, voted 282 to 1,067 against plans to fluoridate its water supply next year.

The Ohio Water Service Co., owner of the water system, took no stand on the issue, which was voted on Tuesday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negro married men made substantial strides toward parity with whites in new blue collar jobs during the last decade, a special

U.S. Census Bureau report discloses.

Negroes, who represent only 11 per cent of the population, got 28 per cent of the new craftsmen and operative openings that went to family men between 1960 and 1969, the report said.

During the same period, the bureau said in the unpublished report, the median income of the married Negro blue collar worker jumped 44 per cent while income for white married men in the same occupations rose 27 per cent.

The report dealt only with the earnings of black and white husbands and did not include the 30 per cent of the nation's 5 million Negro households headed by a woman.

Craftsmen and operatives include industrial workers as well as specialists such as carpenters and plumbers. Not included are clerical and sales workers, service employees and laborers.

Poverty expert Sar Levitan of George Washington University's Center for Manpower Policy Studies said the figures indicate a slow but sure breakdown in racial barriers.

"They are very real changes," the economist said. "They are not just isolated in any particular geographic area or in any specific industry."

The Census Bureau prepared the tabulation at the request and expense of Levitan, who is studying America's blue collar work force.

"We are talking about a total of 1.4 million new jobs with 335,000 of them for Negroes. That's not tokenism if Negroes get nearly 30 per cent of the new jobs. That's way above their proportion of the population," Levitan said.

Before the strides forward in the blue collar field, Levitan said, Negroes were able to make major economic gains only as white collar workers. "Negroes just did not get into craftsmen or operative jobs."

Levitan said the changes resulted in part from "steady and sustained pressure by blacks to get an even break" and federal power "to breathe down the necks" of employers.

"What happened wasn't altruistic," he said. "It was a response to real pressures."

He predicted the gains would continue if the national economy avoided a prolonged recession. If it doesn't, he said, "Then we'll have real problems and the gains could be, I suspect, eliminated."

2 Local Girls Hold Offices At 24th BGS

Two area girls have been elected to municipal offices at the Ohio American Legion Auxiliary's 24th annual session of Buckeye Girls' State on the Capital University Campus.

Beth Jo Rooker, Route 4, has been elected to the office of recreation commissioner of the mythical city Janis. Shirley Rose Courtwright, Ashville, is a member of city council in the city of Bickerdyke.

Both girls are members of the "Federalist" party.

By practical participation, Miss Rooker and Miss Courtwright along with 1,250 other girls are facing the functions and problems of government as well as the rights and duties and responsibilities of American citizenship.

Each of the girls holds an office on one of the three government levels actually carrying out her specific duties. The girls state session ends Saturday.

Miss Rooker is a student at Logan Elm High School. She is a member of the National Honor Society and is active in school and church. She was sponsored by the Logan Elm Booster Club.

Miss Courtwright is a student at Teays Valley High School where she is active in a number of school organizations. She was sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary of the Ashville Post No. 730.
